Chicago Mothers Voluntarily Trade Mixed Babies

AFTER REJECTING SCIENCE'S VERDICT THEY HEED HEART

Both Women Cry as They Get Infants They Ought To Have But Lose Ones
They Love.

WRONG BAPTISMS WORRY PARENTS

Suits Against Each Other
Dropped and Hospital
Exempted by Law as Charity Institution.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—(AP)—The Bamberger-Watkins babies were switched again today, the parents exchanging the infants given them at Englewood hospital where they were born and where their identity labels were mixed.

Suddenly deciding they did not possess their own baby, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bamberger took the infant boy to the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Watkins to make an exchange which heretofore Mr. Bamberger has ruled against. With the decision they called their attorney, Joseph Powers, who asked Dr. Arnold Kegel, city health commissioner, to accompany them and officially witness the exchange.

Arriving at the Watkins' home, Mrs. Bamberger, bearing the infant, which was christened as a "Bamberger," said she wanted to exchange the babies.

New Baby Is Heavier.
"Oh, I've always wanted that baby. It's mine," smiled Mrs. Watkins, but how'll we do it?"

This problem was solved when Mrs. Bamberger picked up the child lying peacefully in the Watkins' crib, and exchanged its clothing for that worn by the one heretofore possessed by the Bambergers.

The exchange was not without a few tears. Mrs. Watkins, once the baby held by Mrs. Bamberger was handed to her by Dr. Kegel, sat upon a couch and cried softly, holding the baby close. Mrs. Bamberger took the infant she had always doubted was her own and remarked that she "would have to learn all over again how to hold him, he's heavier than the other one."

Mr. Bamberger meanwhile remained quiet but attentive of the proceedings, and once again remarked as if to relieve the tension and strain of the two mothers, "Don't mix 'em again."

Attorney Powers, who interceded in the case for the Bambergers after an investigation and a review of the findings of the city health commissioner's office, convinced the couple they held the wrong baby.

With the agreement of the Bambergers to return the baby to the Watkins, Attorney Powers agreed to sue the Englewood hospital, where it is claimed the original error was made, for any damages that may accrue. The hospital, being a charitable institution, under the state law is not liable, some judicial experts have pointed out, for damages. The two families signed a letter for Dr. Kegel which thanked his office for the assistance given in determining the proper parentage after an exhaustive medical and scientific research.

Baptism Disturbs.
A statement from Dr. Kegel explained the method of determining the parentage, which was reviewed by Bamberger and his attorney and led to the action today.

An anthropologist found, after measurements of the children's heads that the babies were in the wrong home; a blood grouping test showed that the Watkins' were in group four, Mr. Bamberger in group one and Mrs. Bamberger in group four, and that the child in the Bamberger home held a blood unit of group four while the baby in the Watkins home was in group two. The medical course followed indicated then the babies were mixed, another specialist found. A precipitin test showed both babies had definite and individual precipitin in their blood against their supposed mothers' condition. A protein test also indicated the babies were mixed.

The babies were originally mixed shortly after birth, on the same day, June 30. Arriving home with the babies an adhesive label on the back of one was found to bear the name "Bamberger," and in the Bamberger home the baby was found to bear the name on a similar tag—"Watkins."

The baby the Bambergers have had for the last two months was baptized a Catholic and the baby the Watkins have had was baptized by a Presbyterian clergyman. The baptisms took place several weeks ago.

"I don't know how we'll straighten that angle out," said Bamberger. "I guess we'll have to leave it to the reverend clergy."

"Southern Republican Organization" Does "Right About" To Laud Hoover.

BY R. E. POWELL.

Colonel Horace Mann, credited with having had much to do with delivering six southern states to Mr. Hoover a couple of years back, and who recently figured in the press with a statement of "principles" upon which he planned to rehabilitate the southern republican party, has been left with the bag to hold.

M. O. Dunning, collector of customs at Savannah, and whose nomination to be republican national committeeman from Georgia is slated to come up at the next meeting of the committee, announced in Savannah Tuesday that the "southern republican organization" has no purpose nor intention of fighting the present national administration.

It was on Dunning's yacht that republicans, said to have gathered from nine different states, were entertained after a meeting in Savannah August 2. At that time, spokesmen for the group informed the press that they had assembled to voice opposition "to the administrative factions of Postmaster General Brown," who was charged with having set up a "fabricated" organization in the south to control delegates to the next national convention—presumably to control them for Mr. Hoover, since Mr. Brown is in the Hoover cabinet and functioning, it is generally conceded, in policies as postmaster general for ages have been wont to function.

After all this program had been broadcast from Savannah, Colonel Mann issued a lengthy statement, adopting some of the high purposes of the Savannah organization meeting and adding thereto a naive bid to disassociate himself from the democratic party's leadership in joining this "southern republican organization."

A call had been issued, in Savannah, for a second meeting here August 15. In his August 15 statement, Dunning said he was the following day, in the afternoon of that day, however, J. W. Arnold, designated as chairman of the republican state committee at the last convention, was located and announced that Dunning was expected to hold the following day when the meeting would be held. Meanwhile, Arnold conferred here with J. Davis, former negro national committeeman, United States Marshal Louis H. Crawford and Lon Cunningham of Huntsville, Ala.

Saturday, Arnold and Cunningham issued a statement saying the "southern republican organization" had held a meeting, repudiated any attack on the present administration, asserted that they were "Hoover" men, and professed some more "Hoover" propaganda. Mr. Dunning, meanwhile, could not be located in Atlanta or Savannah.

In his statement made in Savannah Tuesday, he said the group, to be known as the "southern republican organization," which is to be incorporated in Atlanta, proposed to take no part in the campaign of Senator J. Thomas Heflin, of Alabama, who is to campaign as an independent in the Alabama general election in November. Heflin was named from the Alabama democratic primary because he failed to support Alfred E. Smith for president in 1928.

Dunning said he was of the opinion that principal meetings for the wedding of the new organization as a political force in Georgia would be held at the campaign. Asked as to the status of negro republicans in the new organization, he said he had no comment to make on that question.

Alabama G.O.P. Split On Heflin Is Foreseen

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Indications that the state republican convention meeting here Thursday faces a fight over the question of whether a ticket should be nominated for the November general election grew tonight as conflicting opinions on the advisability of such action were expressed by party leaders.

One faction of the party was said to be in favor of throwing the republican support to the independent ticket headed by Senator J. Thomas Heflin, candidate for re-election, and Hugh A. Locke, Birmingham, a gubernatorial candidate, while other leaders consider the coming election to be the best chance in years to put republicans in power.

Noted Publisher and Aviation Enthusiast Feared Drowned in Fall From Yacht Off New Jersey.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—(AP)—The navy dirigible Los Angeles joined coast guard craft and seaplanes today in an intensive search of the sea for Van Lear Black, millionaire Baltimore publisher and aviation enthusiast, who disappeared last night from his yacht off the New Jersey coast.

The huge dirigible was ordered by navy officials in Washington to proceed to a point about 12 miles south of Scotland lightship at the entrance to New York harbor, where Black is believed to have fallen from his vessel, the Savalo.

Four 75-foot patrol boats from the coast guard station at Staten Island were dispatched to the same spot. Two coast guard boats from the Sandy Hook station scoured the coast from Sandy Hook to Seaside Park but reported no trace of the publisher.

Four seaplanes from the Curtis Flying Service scanned the waters of the harbor near the place he is believed to have gone down but found no trace of him. They will resume the search tomorrow.

The Savalo pulled into Gravesend bay late today and anchored in the bay after an all-night hunt for the body of its owner, John J. Kelley, the master, reported the tragedy to Black's associates in Baltimore, after a steward had failed to find his employer on the yacht about 10 o'clock last night.

The noted publisher was considered a fair swimmer and some of his friends here, refusing to give up all hope, clung to the bare possibility that he might have managed to keep afloat long enough to have been rescued by some small craft. As the hours went by, however, this hope became more and more forlorn.

John J. Kelley, captain of the yacht, the Savalo, a twin-engine oil burning craft, brought word of Black's disappearance today to New York, when he telephoned to Mr. Black's associates in Baltimore. Aid of coast guard and other craft was obtained and the search resumed.

The opinion that the publisher, known in many quarters for his airplane flights, fell accidentally from the dangerous perch on the rail of the yacht, which he was accustomed to use despite the warnings of the captain, was expressed by Kelley.

On the deck was found a handkerchief and the captain said apparently he lost his hold when the yacht took a sudden lurch as he reached for the handkerchief.

The disappearance was discovered by the coast guard and navy when Black's valet, who went to the yacht to deliver a message, about 10 o'clock. The yacht was put about, thoroughly searched, and searchlights combed the waves in vain. He was known as the richest man in Maryland.

Two coast guard craft joined the search for some time and today both the coast guard and navy were asked to lend further aid.

Black was on his way to Chesapeake bay after cruising and visiting the vicinity of New York since July 31. He planned to visit his island home in the Chesapeake.

Among his visitors on board recently were Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, and Admiral Richard E. Byrd, both friends of long standing.

The publisher's flights, beginning in 1927, took him around the world to the Dutch East Indies and to South Africa, a total of approximately 125,000 miles. Because of these flights Black was more widely known than as a publisher, capitalist and leader in civic affairs, though he had been a chief figure in Baltimore for years. He was known as the richest man in Maryland.

Though far from penniless as a youth Black is credited with having carved out his own fortune and career. Born at Cumberland, Md., in 1875, he was brought by his parents to Baltimore when 7 years old, attended private schools until he was 15, and later entered the Belmont school near Boston.

U. S. TAKES A HAND IN ZUTA DEALINGS WITH OFFICIALS

Will Get Evidence To Prosecute for Tax Fraud
Those Men Who Got Gangsters' Cash.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—(AP)—The federal government stepped into the investigation of Jack Zuta's slaying today and obtained copies of all payments made by the slain gangster, with a view to determining whether prosecution for income tax violation might be instituted against the recipients.

Such copies were obtained by A. P. Madden, chief of investigations for the internal revenue department. He has put a staff of men to work checking the payments against income tax returns of persons mentioned in the Zuta ledgers.

This information came soon after the announcement that officials had opened a fourth safe deposit box, believed to contain more information bearing upon the killing of Zuta and of Jake Lingle, Tribune reporter.

The first box opened contained a couple of rubber bands, but the next two contained records of advances to a judge, a former state senator, the chief of police of Evanston and numerous hoodlums, police and politicians.

Authorities gave no indication of the contents of the fourth box.

Despite the statement of State's Attorney John A. Swanson, that papers found in the box were too old to permit their use as a basis of prosecution because his statute of limitations had invalidated them, those in charge of the investigation continue to release names on the checks for publication.

Today two checks, drawn in favor of State Senator Harry W. Starr, each for $200, signed by Zuta, were disclosed to the press without comment by the investigators.

Both checks bore October, 1926 dates and Senator Starr explained that he had taken the checks as fees for a civil case in which he represented Zuta. Senator Starr is a candidate for re-election from the thirteenth (south Chicago) district.

Two checks made out to Joseph "Diamond Joe" Esposito, slain three years ago in what police termed the struggle for control of a large Sicilian organization, were among those disclosed, and another bore the endorsement of Tony Lombardo, slain in a spectacular hoodlum outburst within half a block from State and Madison streets, the city's busiest intersection.

Cancelled checks for about $1,300 bearing the endorsement of F. H. Finkelstein also were found. Finkelstein was sought for questioning in connection with Zuta's death after a witness testified his picture bore a likeness to one of Zuta's executioners.

Other checks, made out for small amounts were drawn in favor of minor bootleggers, authorities said.

Watermelon Season Largest in History

Although prices have been off by comparison, Georgia has shipped more watermelons this year than in any previous season and at the same time shipped a larger percentage of the total commercial production in the country than ever before.

Of the 53,473 carloads marketed in the entire United States, Georgia produced and shipped 24,273 cars, according to figures given out at the bureau of markets Tuesday.

Incidentally, Jones said the bureau had moved more than 600 cars of watermelons this season by furnishing growers with the use of the bureau's freight bond.

"Where farmers failed to sell their melons on the tracks," Jones said, "and were unable to advance freight charges the bureau was able to pay the charges through its bond without having to assume any risk itself. Railroads will not move watermelons," he explained, "unless freight charges are paid."

The bureau of markets also announced that the 1930 sweet potato crop is moving, a number of cars having been sold the past week at prices reported to be satisfactory to growers.

Knife Removed.
DYERSBURG, Tenn., Aug. 19.—(AP)—George Lewis Spencer, six months old, was recovering in a hospital here today after an operation for the removal of a knife from his stomach. The child swallowed it about two weeks ago without suffering any apparent ill effects. An X-ray examination located the knife, about three inches in length, and an operation was decided upon.

Fist Fight Caused Aimee To 'Get Sick,' Mother Avers

NOT BLIND, JUST RECOVERING FROM FACE LIFTING

BY GEORGE BEALE,
United News Staff Correspondent.
LOS ANGELES, Aug. 19.—(UN)—Mrs. Aimee Temple McPherson, evangelist, who in seclusion tonight, a victim of what her associates declared was blindness superinduced by a nervous breakdown. Meanwhile her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, was in a sanitarium receiving treatment for a broken nose she said she received in a fight with her daughter.

Reports from the Malibu cottage, where Mrs. McPherson was resting, conflicted in regard to the severity of her illness. Friends at the Angelus temple, where the evangelist became world famous for her preaching of the "four-square" gospel, declared that Mrs. McPherson was suffering from blindness and was in a precarious condition. A bulletin to this effect was posted on the temple.

Meanwhile Dr. Edward H. Williams, psychiatrist and neurologist, who attended the patient tonight, was more optimistic. He said she had suffered a breakdown due to overwork but was in no immediate danger.

"She is not blind but her eyes are in poor shape and the utmost care must be exercised," he said.

Both Dr. Williams and friends of the church leader scoffed at rumors, in part advanced by Mrs. Kennedy, that Mrs. McPherson's nervous collapse was the result of a quarrel between them.

"We had a quarrel and Aimee struck me on the nose," said Mrs. Kennedy, explaining that this was the cause of her (Mrs. Kennedy's) confinement in the Brentwood sanitarium here.

Meanwhile Miss Emma Schaeffer, secretary to Aimee, announced that the famous evangelist had lost her sight, and others of her congregation attributed her illness to a nervous breakdown induced by overwork.

"After 22 years of unselfish, unremitted evangelistic work, it is no wonder human strength cannot indefinitely endure the pressure of work entailed by the great organization she has built," said a statement issued by directors of Angelus temple, which Mrs. McPherson had founded.

"I have an idea she is recovering from a beauty operation," Mrs. Kennedy said, "I have an idea she is recovering from a beauty operation."

"We had an argument and I got bumped on the nose. That's all," she said, "I don't think we ever will be reconciled."

GANDHI REPORTED READY TO ACCEPT DOMINION STATUS

Indian Leader Said To Be Ready To Call Off Campaign in Return for Promise of Change.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Political Britain speculated tonight as to the probable outcome of a peace offer reported to have been made to the government by Mahatma Gandhi, imprisoned leader of the nationalist civil disobedience movement in India.

Gandhi is said to have offered to call off his campaign if the labor government and the viceroy of India, Lord Irwin, will pledge to work for dominion status at the forthcoming round table conference and grant amnesty to political prisoners.

The nationalist chieftain wrote a letter to the viceroy after conferences last week with four fellow prisoners—Pandit Motilal Nehru, Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, Mrs. Sarojini Naidu and Vallabhai Patel—and two emissaries of peace, Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru and M. Jayakar.

That letter was due to be delivered to Lord Irwin today, so the purported contents evidently came from a leak on the part of some participant.

Observers feel that some important government view will be revealed within 36 hours—possible publication of the Gandhi letter, with assent or refusal to pledging efforts toward dominion status at the round table sessions.

Since Lord Irwin, speaking for the labor government, has stated repeatedly that such status is the ultimate goal of India, it is felt that Gandhi is seeking to speed the work toward that end, as he has known all along of the viceroy's attitude.

The Gandhi view, if reports are correct regarding the contents of his letter, represents a considerable change in his attitude. Hitherto he has held out for complete independence as the price of ending the non-cooperation movement.

Now, it is said, he realizes that the MacDonald government cannot grant dominion status because of opposition strength, but can furnish a potent weapon in fighting it.

Meanwhile, there is a feeling in some quarters that the labor government may not be in office by the time the round table meetings begin in November. The conservatives are gunning for the laborites, using as ammunition the fact that more than 2,000,000 are unemployed, and intend to start their campaign next month. Parliament will reconvene October 28 and a division there may lead to dissolution of the body and general elections.

Skeleton and Sword Found on River Bed

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 19.—(AP)—A gold-hilted sword, engraved "Jos. W. Morton," and strapped to a skeleton found on the bed of a Mississippi river opposite the city today, started historians searching their reference books.

An officer of the U. S. army, who believed it was the remains of an officer of Admiral Farragut's forces that captured Baton Rouge in 1862. The discovery was made possible by the low stage of the river, as normally the spot would be covered by 20 feet of water.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Navy officials today expressed the opinion that the skeleton found in the Mississippi river near Baton Rouge with a sword bearing the name "Jos. W. Morton," strapped to it might have been that of a British soldier.

Navy records failed to show that an officer in the army, navy, marine corps or Confederate army or navy.

No records of enlisted men were available but officials said it was not likely that the man would have carried a sword had he not been an officer.

Woman Who Conspired Against Oregon Freed

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Senorita Maria Elena Manzano, serving a six-year penitentiary sentence in connection with an alleged plot to assassinate state leaders in 1928, Monday was granted her freedom under bond.

She was arrested with two men and charged with plotting to kill General Obregon and General Calles by poisoning them with a poisoned pin at a dance in their honor.

The plot was never carried out but Obregon later was assassinated.

ROBBERY OF $106 CHARGED TO KIRBY, FORSYTH MEMBER

Holdup of American Finance Company, on July 18, Was Characterized by Daring Boldness.

OVERALLS, KEY LED TO ARREST

After Grilling by Police
Few Days After Robbery,
Kirby, Youngest Man in Assembly, Was Freed.

J. H. Kirby, Forsyth county member of the legislature, is to be arrested today on an indictment charging him with robbery of the American Finance Company offices, in the Peters building, unless he appears at the courthouse this morning and posts $2,000 bond.

This was announced Tuesday night by Deputy Sheriff Claude Register when Kirby, against whom the grand jury returned a true bill Tuesday afternoon, failed to appear at the courthouse, though his attorney, John F. Echols, had informed the sheriff's office the "baby" legislator was in town and was ready to make bond.

Echols said Tuesday night that Kirby was not ready to make a statement. He promised to have his client, who is accused of having obtained $106 in the hold-up, at the courthouse this morning. At the time of his arrest and release by the Atlanta police Kirby is said to have reported that he registered at the Kimball house early on the day of the robbery but had returned to his home at Cumming without staying overnight and had given his key to the room to a friend from Forsyth county.

Kirby's indictment by a Fulton county grand jury came as something of a surprise to his friends, who knew that he had been detained in Atlanta some time ago for a 48-hour investigation by detectives and had been released, presumably with a clean bill.

The robbery for which Kirby, who attracted statewide attention in legislative circles because of his extreme youth—having been a candidate for office before his twenty-first birthday—is under indictment, was one of daring boldness and baffled police for several days after July 18.

Detectives found in the court of the Kimball house a pile of ornaments containing a key to the hotel room which, they said, Kirby had occupied. It was understood that, during a grilling, he convinced the detectives that he had made a friendly "loan" of the room to a companion from his home town.

On Monday, Kirby was taken into the investigation aimed at Kirby here several days after the robbery but his release was not made until Tuesday.

Girl Communists Will Fight Sentence

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 19.—(P)—A vigorous effort to free two girl communists from a sentence of three months in the Monroe county penitentiary, imposed by Justice of the Peace William Westbrook, of Van Etten, on charges of deserting the flag, was launched here today, with

Rochester communists raising a defense fund and planning a mass meeting Saturday. The girls, Allene Holmes, 23, of New York, and Mabel Huse, 20, of Belden, N. D., began serving their sentences yesterday. They were arrested after they had refused the offer of a flag for their camp near Van Etten, where 100 children under their charge were being instructed in communist doctrines. The refusal was the cause of a near riot and authorities were called to protect the girls from a mob of 2,000 persons who threatened to burn the camp. Bert T. Baker, of Ithaca, retained by the International Labor Defense, has obtained an order from Supreme Court Justice Personius fixing a hearing at Elmira next Tuesday.

BALTIMORE-SAN JUAN SERVICE IS BEGUN

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 19.—(P)—Sailing today with 20 passengers, the steamer Barbara, of the Bull line, inaugurated a new passenger service between Baltimore and San Juan, Porto Rico.

The voyage will require four and a half days. The Barbara is scheduled to arrive in San Juan on Sunday and will leave for Baltimore the following Saturday. Sailings from this port will be made every third Tuesday. The Barbara, which has passenger accommodations for 43 persons, is an oil-burning vessel of 6,600 tons. The ship will stop on the northbound journey at Norfolk.

WOODCOCK SUSPENDS DRY ADMINISTRATOR

Golding Draws Indefinite Suspension for Misconduct.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—(P)—George Golding, prohibition administrator at Albany, N. Y., was under indefinite suspension today on charges involving personal misconduct, which, if sustained, will result in his dismissal from the service. Prohibition Director Woodcock, who announced yesterday he would punish illegal personal behavior of agents, said Golding was charged with misconduct with several stenographers in his office. The charges, brought by the girls themselves, are now on file with the civil service commission, which has power to oust the administrator from the government service.

Woodcock said the charges were first made last July 15, and that a thorough investigation had been made which led him to believe the girls involved were in "no way to blame." Two other agents, Robert F. Myrtle, of Milwaukee, and Basil N. Quinn, of Washington, D. C., were given five-day suspensions yesterday for their behavior in quarrels with motorists over traffic rules. Myrtle, the director said, attempted to arrest a motorist and drew a gun when asked to show his authority. Quinn was said to have struck a driver and taken him to police station, exceeding his authority.

Acknowledging the penalties to be mild, Woodcock said he sought through these punishments to check abuses and promised more stern measures if necessary. The dry chief refused to go into details of the Golding case. He said the administrator's record on the whole appeared to be good. Golding, who has been in Albany for about two years, won the nickname of "Hard-Boiled" Golding for earlier exploits in the dry campaign. He was assigned to Washington for a time in 1924 when a clean-up of violators was under way in the capital.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 19.—(P)—George Golding, suspended prohibition administrator, was transferred from Cleveland four years ago as the outgrowth of a clash between the federal prohibition and police departments. The dispute began when Patrolman Charles Heidrick reprimanded Golding for "jaywalking" downtown. Golding attempted to arrest the patrolman and the differences which followed eventually led to Golding's transfer.

4 Maryland Solons Have No Opposition

BALTIMORE, Aug. 19.—(P)—Four of Maryland's six congressmen will go on the November ballot without contest for re-election in the September 8 primary, it developed today with the deadline for filing candidacies past at midnight.

Two of the four are the state's republican representatives, Frederick N. Zihlman, sixth district, and Linwood L. Clark, second district, while two democrats, T. Alan Goldsborough, who has served five terms from the first district, and J. Charles Litchum, who is seeking his 10th term from the fourth. Fights for re-election are faced by Vincent L. Palmisano, democrat, third district, with four opponents, and Stephen W. Gambrell, fifth district, with one opponent.

Governor Albert C. Ritchie, seeking re-election for a fourth term, is unopposed along with his statewide ticket, as is the republican state ticket headed by William F. Broening, Baltimore mayor. Indications are that the September primary will be one of the most apathetic affairs in years, as nominations for the legislature and other offices went by default last night. Vacancies on party tickets for the November elections may be filed up to primary day.

Murder 2 Years Ago Charged to Alabamans

ABBEVILLE, Ala., Aug. 19.—(P)—The slaying of Hattie Mooring, 28, nearly two years ago, had its echo in Henry county circuit court today in the indictment of her brother-in-law, Emmett Calhoun, 40, and John Williams, a negro, on charges of first degree murder.

A grand jury that heard the evidence unearthed by a private detective recently, today returned presentments against both men who are held in the Henry county jail without bond.

The slaying of Miss Mooring was described as one of the "most brutal" in the history of Henry county. The young woman had driven to Port Guinea, Ga., the day she was slain and late that evening, the horse arrived at home drawing an empty buggy. Searching parties were organized, and her body, the head mashed in by a heavy limb, was found less than half a mile from the Calhoun farm where she had made her home.

Persia Won't Help In War on Kurds

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Aug. 19.—(P)—Persia is believed to have informed Turkey that she can under no circumstances consent to military cooperation with the Turks against the Kurds in Persian territory. The Persian charge d'affaires today handed to the foreign minister a note which apparently contains Persia's last word in the exchange of notes which has been going on for a fortnight. The foreign minister and the minister of the interior have proceeded to the summer resort on the sea of Marmora where Mustapha Kemal is staying, for a conference.

The Turkish view appears to be that this refusal by Teheran is incompatible with the assurances of friendship previously given by Persia.

Two Chambers Seen At Mexican Capital

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 19.—(P)—The newspaper "El Sol" says two chambers of deputies—one legal and the other illegal—will be installed in Mexico City on September 1, the date for the new chamber to convene. One will meet in the usual quarters of the chamber and the other in El Teatro Iris. At the latter meeting will be 150 men who claim election in the recent nation-wide poll but who were excluded from the preliminary session of the Mexican congress last week because of faulty credentials. This group is composed principally of men who ran in opposition to candidates of the national revolutionary party.

If two chambers do meet it will devolve upon President Ortiz Rubio to decide which is legal. It was considered a certainty here today that the chamber containing members of the national revolutionary party would gain this recognition.

FREE USE OF MONEY PREDICTED BY PERRY

Also Brings Name of Former Governor Walker Into Gubernatorial Race.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Tuesday James A. Perry, candidate for governor, predicted that "more political money" would be spent during the first ten days of September "than has been spent altogether in the past 25 years."

Perry made his prediction at the Laurens county courthouse, in Dublin. "I entered this fight," he said, "to wrest control of Georgia from the school book trust, and certain road machinery and road contracting forces who have been supporting George Carswell and John Holder, respectively."

"I warn the voters now that there will be more political money spent in debauch between September 1 and 10 than has been spent all told in the combined elections of Georgia during the past 25 years. The people will have to be on guard and vote with unity in opposition to this predatory influence and overwhelmingly defeat such designing influences."

Mr. Perry spoke only once, but E. D. Rivers delivered four addresses and George B. Carswell three. Richard B. Russell, Jr., also had two or more speeches on his schedule, leaving John N. Holder the only seeker of the nomination not to appear on the platform. Mr. Holder will speak at Buchanan, Harlison county, tomorrow, however, and the other candidates will continue speaking dates also.

Scores Opponents' Stand. Rivers made the principal address of the day at Jesup. He there scored his opponents for "adopting half-way measures on important issues."

Russell, at Milledgeville, stressed the importance of harmony as between the governor and legislature if constructive work is to be accomplished.

"I am tied to no faction nor to any big interests," he declared, "but will work with the assembly to do the most and best we can for the state as a whole."

Carswell, at Jackson, continued his drive for allocation of funds from the automobile tag tax for one year to ward payment of school teachers, Confederate veterans and other obligations of the state. He said approximately $14,000,000 would be left for road construction with this tax removed, and that highway work should not suffer.

Mr. Carswell's night speech was delivered at Griffin.

Russell Discusses Political Turnout. At Athens tonight Russell said his election would "end over a half-century of political turmoil between two factions" to which he charged the state's present financial situation.

"If you elect Mr. Holder governor," he said, "the faction which supported the Hardman administration will block all efforts of legislation in retaliation for the almost perfect tie-up of the Holder forces made of the last legislature while if you elect Carswell, supported by some Hardman admirers, the Holder forces will continue to block legislation."

Senate Candidates on Stump. United States Senator Harris, campaigning for re-nomination, Tuesday declared that while many "irrelevant and unimportant things have been dragged into this campaign, the voters' decision should be based upon the records of the contestants for office."

He made his statement at Darien, in western Georgia, while his opponent, former Governor John M. Slaton, spoke at Dallas, in the north-west part of the state.

Harris said he had accomplished "practical, useful things" for his constituents during the past 12 years, while, on the other hand, "Ex-governor Slaton held office for 14 years and the records do not show a single measure or constructive piece of legislation" fathered by him.

Slaton in his Dallas address dealt chiefly with the subject of negro disfranchisement. Senator Harris has spoken often of the time when he and others were fighting for disfranchisement, he said, "in point of fact, the disfranchisement bill was passed a good many years before Senator Harris cut his political eye teeth. He had as much to do with disfranchising the negro in Georgia as the man in the moon."

Walker Brought Into Campaign by Perry

DEBILIN, Ga., Aug. 19.—(Special.)—The education of the thousands of children in this state; the care and comfort of thousands of mentally sick in the asylum at Milledgeville; the provision for the cure of children of Georgia attacked by the white plague and the last minute succor of those who are beyond medical aid, as well as the administration of financial aid to the crippled and helpless Confederate veterans of the state are more holy to me than all the roads of Georgia," said George S. Carswell in a speech here tonight in which he urged the allocating of $5,000,000 of auto tax money to the payment of the state's back debts.

"I am an ardent supporter of good roads."

"J. W. Barnett, highway chairman, knows that there will be enough of the highway funds left to match the federal aid, and Richard B. Russell, candidate, knows that the state will not suffer a $10,000 loss through the lack of funds to match the federal aid. A dollar will stretch a long way in highway work if those spending it know it will have to go a long way."

The state owes Butts county $15,598.86 for school and the county of Pike $17,008.17, Carswell said during the speeches made today at Jackson and Zebulon, respectively, and he pointed out in his night speech at Griffin that the county of Spaulding should receive $20,948 for back indebtedness of schools.

Four Speeches Made By Rivers Tuesday

JESUP, Ga., Aug. 19.—(Special.) With four speeches scheduled for Tuesday, Ed Rivers continued to lead all other candidates in the number of addresses delivered. In his speech here he scored his opponents in the governor's race for "adopting half-way measures on important issues."

"There are two important issues in this race," said Mr. Rivers, "that the other candidates have met only half-way. I refer to taking the tax off the farmers' land and giving our children free schoolbooks."

"The people of Georgia are tired of half-way measures and they are good and tired of issue-evading candidates."

Bishop Candler Quoted by Slaton

CARROLLTON, Ga., Aug. 19.—Addressing a large audience of Carroll county citizens in the courthouse here this afternoon, former Governor John M. Slaton, candidate for the senate against Senator Harris, made reference to a recent article by Bishop Warren A. Candler on the subject of high taxes and growing expense of government.

"From the inception of this contest," said former Governor Slaton, "I have emphasized the need for economy in government."

"The senator's only reply to my criticism of his record in this particular matter has been to characterize my statements as a figment of my imagination. I wonder if Senator Harris will say that Bishop Candler's mind was wandering, when he wrote in his weekly newspaper article last Sunday on the menace of governmental extravagance and high taxes."

"Wiser words were never spoken by Bishop Candler. When Senator Harris reads them if he has not done so already, will he say of the bishop, as he said of me, that such statements are mere figments of an over-wrought imagination?"

Senatorial Committee Coming, Says Harris

In a statement issued from the Atlanta headquarters of Senator William J. Harris Tuesday, detailed reiteration of charges against former Governor Slaton was made and the statement made that a probe of the money used in the Georgia race would be made by a senatorial committee.

In conclusion the statement says: "The people of Georgia will assert their patriotism and manhood in refusing to be influenced by money in this senatorial campaign. Already the special senatorial committee, probing the uses of money in senate campaigns in the different states, are heading for Georgia. They will ascertain under oath the amount of funds expended, to whom paid and by whom handled, and will make public through their report of the records of both the Harris and Slaton headquarters expenditures in this Senate campaign."

The life-time career of Mr. Slaton, his speeches and newspaper statements, his long record of lobbying for the big interests and wealth generally, stamp him as a standard, a reactionary of the ultra variety. The United States senate already has enough millionaires who are not in touch with the masses of the people."

Building Fee Records Held by Millican

Controversy between a council committee and a committee of the Atlanta board of education, both investigating fees charged by G. Lloyd Preacher, architect, in construction of $2,700,000 worth of school improvements, was in prospect Tuesday when Alderman G. Everett Millican, chairman of the council group, declared he will not turn the records over to the school committee.

John T. Hancock, chairman of the board's committee, has called a session of his committee for 3 o'clock this afternoon at the city hall to map out plans for the inquiry which that body will conduct.

Mr. Millican stated he obtained the papers and most of the records from Solicitor General John A. Boykin, and gave his personal receipt for them.

"I shall deliver them back to Mr. Boykin's office, where I got them, when we are through," he said.

Coste Postpones Flight to America

LE BOURGET, France, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Captain Dieudonne Coste, French flying ace, in a trial flight to test his radio apparatus today found that his airplane, "Question Mark" was too heavily laden for a flight to New York. His start on the trans-Atlantic attempt was again postponed.

Continued bad flying weather in mid-ocean and on the French Atlantic seaboard, with strong headwinds, was an added reason for delaying it.

Mechanics were busy until late tonight removing two additional fuel tanks under the plane's wings, each with a capacity of 100 gallons of gasoline.

Even with these tanks removed, Coste's plane will weigh 12 tons when fully loaded for the long hop. The machine will carry 1,500 gallons of gasoline and 300 gallons of oil.

Mrs. O'Donnell Holds Ladybird Race Lead

DOUGLAS, Ariz., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Mrs. Gladys O'Donnell, Long Beach, Cal., won the fourth and fifth laps of the women's national air derby today to increase her elapsed time lead to more than 10 minutes over Marjorie Deig, Danbury, Conn., who was in second place.

The six women who took off Sunday at Long Beach on the nine-day trip to Chicago, made the morning flight from Phoenix to Tucson and the afternoon trip from Tucson here without serious mishap.

Yesterday Ruth Barron, Hollywood, Cal., missed Phoenix in flying from Calexico, Cal., and was forced down in a corn field 110 miles northwest of the Arizona capital by a fuel shortage. She rejoined the group shortly at Phoenix. She had to hike six miles to catch a ride to the nearest town, Holbrook.

Two Floridians Held For Plotting Murder

WACHULA, Fla., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Two local men, Jim and Marvin Bailey, were under $3,000 bond today, charged with conspiracy to kill I. P. Barlow, attorney and brother-in-law of Marvin. Their case will be handled by the October circuit court grand jury, county officials said.

Both Baileys are large property holders. The so-called conspiracy was said by investigators to have grown out of a dispute over property owned by the lawyer and his wife.

Barlow swore out a warrant for the pair yesterday, charging that the two men "did unlawfully consult, hire and procure one R. Quick to assault one J. P. Barlow with intent to murder."

The officers also said they had found witnesses who testified they saw the Baileys make a payment on the price agreed upon for Barlow's death. The men were arrested after given a hearing before County Judge F. G. James. Afterward they posted bond.

Attorney Arrested For Slashing Woman

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—(AP)—A lawyer was under arrest today charged with slashing a woman client.

The woman, Mrs. Kate Shea, was found in her Lexington avenue apartment by a neighbor suffering from a razor blade gash on her left wrist. A short while afterward police arrested Leslie Lockhart, 50 years old, a lawyer who represented her in a divorce action several years ago. The woman's condition was reported serious from loss of blood.

The police said Mrs. Shea recently was served with divorce papers by her second husband. They said the slashing took place during a quarrel in which Lockhart was said by neighbors to have threatened her.

Miss Deig was the victim of the only accident today. As she brought her plane down in Tucson, the noon control, a tire blew out, crumpling a wheel of her plane. Repairs were made quickly and her ship was on the line for the afternoon start.

Tomorrow the fliers will take off from Lordsburg, Deming and Roswell, New Mexico.

LIVINGSTON LEADS MEN'S RACE.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Aug. 19.—(UN)—Jack Livingston brought his monoplane airplane down at Winburn field here at 4:47 p. m. today to give him a lead of 6 minutes and 21 seconds over W. C. Moore, his only opponent in the national air derby from Brownsville to Chicago.

The fliers will spend the night here and resume their flight early Wednesday.

$1,850 Holdup.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Two robbers held up the office of the Samuel J. White Dental Manufacturing Company in East 149th street today and escaped with $1,850 in loose gold and cash.

Two Floridians Held For Plotting Murder

WACHULA, Fla., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Two local men, Jim and Marvin Bailey, were under $3,000 bond today, charged with conspiracy to kill I. P. Barlow, attorney and brother-in-law of Marvin. Their case will be handled by the October circuit court grand jury, county officials said.

Both Baileys are large property holders. The so-called conspiracy was said by investigators to have grown out of a dispute over property owned by the lawyer and his wife.

Barlow swore out a warrant for the pair yesterday, charging that the two men "did unlawfully consult, hire and procure one R. Quick to assault one J. P. Barlow with intent to murder."

The officers also said they had found witnesses who testified they saw the Baileys make a payment on the price agreed upon for Barlow's death. The men were arrested after given a hearing before County Judge F. G. James. Afterward they posted bond.

Attorney Arrested For Slashing Woman

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—(AP)—A lawyer was under arrest today charged with slashing a woman client.

The woman, Mrs. Kate Shea, was found in her Lexington avenue apartment by a neighbor suffering from a razor blade gash on her left wrist. A short while afterward police arrested Leslie Lockhart, 50 years old, a lawyer who represented her in a divorce action several years ago. The woman's condition was reported serious from loss of blood.

The police said Mrs. Shea recently was served with divorce papers by her second husband. They said the slashing took place during a quarrel in which Lockhart was said by neighbors to have threatened her.

Callaway To Complete Law Studies in West

Roy E. Callaway, son of Deputy Sheriff T. Frank Callaway and nephew of Recorder A. W. Callaway, will leave Thursday for the University of Southern California to complete his studies in law.

Callaway already is a practicing attorney of recognized ability among the younger lawyers of Atlanta.

He was graduated in 1929 from the Atlanta Law school and has been actively engaged in his profession since that time. He is a member of the Sigma Delta Kappa, national legal fraternity, and of the Pi Phi Pi, honorary legal fraternity. He has been active in the affairs of the former organization and now holds one of the most important national offices.

Mrs. O'Donnell Holds Ladybird Race Lead

DOUGLAS, Ariz., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Mrs. Gladys O'Donnell, Long Beach, Cal., won the fourth and fifth laps of the women's national air derby today to increase her elapsed time lead to more than 10 minutes over Marjorie Deig, Danbury, Conn., who was in second place.

The six women who took off Sunday at Long Beach on the nine-day trip to Chicago, made the morning flight from Phoenix to Tucson and the afternoon trip

CARRIERS DECREASE STOCK, FEED RATES

Rail Lines Co-operate To Aid Farmers in Drought-Stricken Areas.

Reduced rates amounting to half of standard tariffs applying to stock feeds and live stock in the drought-stricken areas of the south were announced Tuesday by the Southern Freight Association.

The Southern Freight Association is an organization of carriers operating south of the Potomac and Ohio rivers and east of the Mississippi.

J. E. Tilford, chairman, said the rates would apply in localities certified by Secretary Hyde, of the United States department of agriculture. Distressed farmers in the certified area, he explained, can obtain the reduced rates by applying to federal county agents for emergency permits.

Paris of the states of Virginia, Tennessee and Kentucky are to benefit chiefly from the reduction, Tilford said. Full details of the emergency schedule have not yet been received, he added, but the association has been advised that similar rates for the drought area west of the Mississippi are being worked out.

"The emergency rates," he said, "are the result of negotiations between the carriers and officials of the federal government, including President Hoover. The carriers volunteered to reduce the rates."

Rates will apply, he said, on stock feed moving into the drought area and on live stock moving out of the area.

Sparks Circus to Bring Star Riders to Atlanta

The bareback riders are the aristocrats of the circus, and their names and records form many interesting chapters in the history of the white tops. Foremost among them are Bedini and Flora Bedini, who this season are featured in the act of the Goice troupe, coming here with Sparks circus when it exhibits next Monday afternoon and night.

Bareback riding acts are essentially of the circus, for their very nature is such that they have never been attempted with any degree of success anywhere but in the ring of a circus.

And just as the riders have been given a distinction all their own with every circus organization, so also the pampered animals of these tented shows are found in the ring stock. The horses used by the riders receive as much attention as the most valuable race horses, and are perfectly groomed, and kept in the best of condition. For the "resin-backs," as they also are called, have received much schooling and training before being ready for their work in the ring, and perhaps only one horse in a hundred is temperamentally fitted for the job for the animal must be of a peculiar type.

Sheriff J. I. Lowry Witness Before Jury

Fulton county's sheriff, James J. Lowry, and Mrs. Florence Smith, in charge of the information bureau at Grady hospital, were new witnesses before the Fulton county grand jury, which continued its probe of graft conditions Tuesday.

It is reported that new bills of indictment have been drawn for presentation to the grand jury but it is not believed they will be returned until later this week. Special sessions were indicated today and Thursday with the indictments coming probably on Friday.

In the absence of Solicitor-General John A. Boykin, Assistant Solicitor-General Ed. A. Stephens is in charge of the probe.

Georgia Victor Dealers Gather Here For Advance View of Victor Models

Georgia dealers of the Victor Talking Machine Company were hosts Tuesday of the Elyea Talking Machine Company at an advance showing of new Victor radios and combinations at the Biltmore hotel. In the group above are shown, back row, left to right: George Rowe, Atlanta representative of the Victor factory; Charles L. Elyea, president Elyea company, Victor distributors; J. F. Gordy, sales manager, Elyea company; Arthur Carroll, sales promotion department, Victor company, and G. L. Richardson, southeastern district sales manager, Victor division. Front row, left to right: George F. Eckhardt, Victor record division, and George Elyea, vice president Elyea Talking Machine Company.

Eyes of the radio industry in the southeastern states were focused Tuesday on Atlanta when Victor dealers from Georgia and all the surrounding territory assembled at the Biltmore hotel in a meeting sponsored by the Elyea Talking Machine Company. Victor distributors for the Atlanta territory. Coinciding with the meeting, the new 1930-31 line of Victor radios and radio-electrolas was placed on exhibition.

G. L. Richardson, district manager of the southeastern states for the Victor division of the R. C. A. Victor Co., Inc., made the principal talk at the meeting and presented the new instruments to those in attendance. Many novel and drastic changes are to be found in the new line. The cabinets are new, novel and entirely different from anything on the market. Designed in classical Italian style they will fit into the requirements of any living room. Their prices are considerably less than last year's models, and the set is far superior in every way. Selectivity in excess of the demands of normal broadcasting requirements is a outstanding feature. Tone has been materially improved due to many important changes in their new amplifying unit. The speaker is entirely redesigned in order that all of the true tones of broadcasting and record reproduction might be faithfully reproduced.

Mr. Richardson was introduced by C. L. Elyea, president of the Elyea Talking Machine Co., who welcomed the dealers on behalf of his company. Arthur Carroll, of the Victor sales promotion department, outlining the plans supporting the new line and

O'Brien Heads Group to Study Airport Needs

E. W. O'Brien, editor of the Southern Power Journal, has been appointed chairman of an Atlanta committee by the American Engineering council to conduct a study and survey of this city's airport problems, it is announced.

The Atlanta committee is one of more than 100 throughout the country, named by the engineering group, the public service body of the American engineering profession, in cooperation with the aeronautics branch of the department of commerce.

Other committee members are: J. W. Barnett, of Athens, chairman of the state highway board; W. A. Hantell, former chief of construction of the city of Atlanta; B. M. Hall, consulting engineer; Knox T. Thomas, consulting engineer; George H. Prudden, Atlanta Aircraft Corporation, and E. L. Grimes, civil engineer.

Detailed studies of local conditions and practices will be made by the Atlanta committee. The work of the committee, the council said, is linked with a "world investigation" of the problems of airport drainage and surface which is being conducted by a general committee composed of experts of the council, the American Road Builders' Association, and the aeronautics branch.

Road Drive Launched By South Georgians

Delegations appearing before the State Highway Board Tuesday from Hawkinsville, Valdosta, Waycross and other south Georgia points indicate that section of the state is planning to make a drive for highway fund allotments this fall. It was reported at the capitol, as an explanation of the visits of the south Georgians, that W. C. Vereen, of Moultrie, member of the board, had agreed to spring and summer allotments to north and middle Georgia in excess of south Georgia contracts, on condition that the latter's section quota be built during fall and winter months.

Two Evade Charges In Daylight Holdup

Two men arrested Tuesday morning in connection with the robbery of a filling station at Parkway drive and Highland avenue have not yet been identified as the bandits who late Monday afternoon held up and robbed L. S. Trevis, a collector for the company operating the station, of approximately $400 in cash, according to Chief A. Lamar Poole, of the detective bureau.

Rumors that the two men, H. A. Barnhill, 27, of 1073 Hardee street, N. W., and H. G. Stephens, 37, of 504 Boulevard, N. E., were suspected of having been implicated in the murder Saturday night of William R. Holcomb, were denied Tuesday by Chief Poole, who stated that the known character of Barnhill, who has been arrested several times in connection with automobile thefts, is not such as to warrant the suspicion.

Schools Given More Than Share, Says West

Atlanta public schools receive more than 26 per cent of the city's revenues, it was announced Tuesday by R. Graham West, city comptroller, in answer to a statement made Monday by Raymond H. Ritchie, assistant superintendent of schools, that he believed the schools are not receiving their full quota.

Total payments made to the school during 1929 exceeded the 26 per cent by $4,400.25, in addition to the fact that the city paid interest and sinking funds on all outstanding bonds, and interest on borrowed money to meet pay rolls, according to Mr. West's figures.

He will compile all data and submit it to a special committee of the board which voted Monday to ask for a detailed statement. Mr. West declared that each year recently the schools had had more than the 26 per cent as required by law, because allocations of the board are based on anticipated revenue at the first of the year and that the money anticipated in many instances is short.

McDougald Awarded Contract for Highway

Award of the contract to pave the 14 miles of highway between the Washington-Baldwin county line and Sandersville, postponed at the last meeting of the state highway board, which let contracts totaling more than a million dollars, was made at a board meeting Tuesday. The McDougald

Aero Club Fete Is Planned For Women Fliers

Approximately 15 noted women fliers, entrants in the Women's Dixie Derby of the National Air Races, will be honor guests at a dinner to be given by the Aero Club of Atlanta at 7:30 o'clock Saturday night on the terrace of the Biltmore hotel, it was announced Wednesday by William A. Anslap, secretary of the club. The fliers will arrive at Candler field Saturday afternoon, making an overnight stop here en route to Washington, where the derby will begin Friday. The Women's Dixie Air Derby, a preliminary event to the national air races, extends over a 1,600-mile course from Washington to Chicago, and a total of $4,000 in cash prizes is being offered to the winners.

Mrs. Phoebe Omie, winner of the Women's National Air Races of 1929, and one of the first southern women to become a pilot, stopped at Candler field Tuesday morning in the course of a preliminary survey of the route to be followed by the derby. After a brief stay, she took off in her speedy Monocoupe for Washington where she will join the other participants.

Construction Company, of Atlanta, got the job for a low bid of $335,241. Specifications call for lime rock pavers with surface treatment. The contract provides that work shall begin in ten days.

Suffragist Is Discouraged By Women's Political Work

Pioneer Worker Says
Group Making Mistake
Similar to That of the Temperance Union.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Emily Newell Blair, who campaigned for suffrage in Missouri back in 1914, is "frankly quite discouraged about women in politics."

She made this known today in her contribution—the first pessimistic one—to a fat compendium of opinions on women and the ballot gathered by the League of Women Voters to mark the tenth birthday of feminine suffrage in America.

All these views, gathered from notables of both sexes, are to be published for the anniversary on August 26, of the signing by former Secretary of State Colby of the proclamation that actually culminated the movement.

"I am afraid," Mrs. Blair said, "the suffragists have made the same mistake as the temperance group. Both of them thought that with their victory they had only to defend their position; and so, just as the Women's Christian Temperance Union stopped its educational work for temperance and devoted itself to claiming the eighteenth amendment worked, so the suffragists stopped their educational work of convincing people that women had a right to equality and devoted themselves to other interests."

Mary E. Woolley, president of Mount Holyoke College, in responding to the league's query said:

"The granting of the suffrage to women has not brought about the millennium, but it has meant a decided step toward better government."

There are indifferent citizens among women as among men, but the addition of women certainly has meant a large increase in the number of citizens who are both conscientious and intelligent."

Said Newton D. Baker, former war secretary: "The years of experience under the nineteenth amendment are not enough to enable me to express any positive judgments as to the use which women in general have made of their suffrage privilege."

He added, however, that educational processes women have set up to train themselves seemed to him "admirable in spirit and accomplishment," and that "a great question of political right was settled."

Mrs. Raymond Brown, editor of the Woman's Journal, gave as her opinion that "both men and women are questioning government processes and are watching the actions of elected officials as they never used to do," and that "political party committees and candidates have frequently been embarrassed and sometimes incensed at the questions women have showered on them."

Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt said women had made "a contribution to better government," and that "wherever they have taken part in local politics, there is no question but what the general standards have gone up. She contended "the percentage of those who use their suffrage is probably about equal now to the percentage of men who use theirs."

Dr. W. A. Neilson, president of Smith College, put into words what many who were consulted seem to feel. He said, "It is a commonplace that no great political change produced all the evil its opponents predicted or all the good its supporters hoped for."

In his observation, he added, "fears of the opponents of women's suffrage have been realized hardly at all," while the high hopes of its supporters "are being gradually but steadily fulfilled."

RESCUED PASSENGERS PRAISE SHIP CAPTAINS

Ventura and Tahiti Masters
Prevented Disasters, Grateful
Folk Say.

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Aug. 19.—(AP)—First stories from passengers of the ill-fated Pacific passenger liner Tahiti reaching here today from Pago Pago indicated that masterly seamanship on the part of the captains of both the Tahiti and the Ventura, prevented an appalling disaster.

Twice before the Ventura arrived, when there seemed no hope of rescue at hand, the Tahiti's captain gave orders to the passengers to take to the lifeboats.

All aboard the Tahiti were grateful for what appeared to be their deliverance when the freighter Penryn hove above the horizon and ordered the passengers to take to the lifeboats.

But although she stood by and was willing to do all possible to succor the disabled and sinking craft, the Penryn lacked equipment to transfer the Tahiti's company.

Fear ruled the Tahiti for three days, but throughout their harrowing experience the passengers were orderly and obedient to the dictates of their captain. When the great good fortune of rescue came to them the women passengers first transferred, then the men and finally the crew.

Two TEACHERS ARE MARRIED. SEATTLE, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Two Seattle school teachers may be forced to remain for a year on the Island of Rarotonga as a result of the sinking of the liner Tahiti.

The teachers, Miss Jean Lane and Mrs. Irene Lansing, planned to return to the United States on the Tahiti. This liner stopped at Rarotonga once a year and was the only trans-Pacific ship calling there. She sank while approaching the island.

Miss Lane and Mrs. Lansing, who were on the ship, were married on the day of the disaster. The government may be asked to provide special transportation for the teachers.

GEORGIA MAN FAMILIAR WITH SHIP. WAYCROSS, Ga., Aug. 19.—Rev. Ignatius Gottfried, of Waycross, is familiar with the ship Tahiti that sank in the Pacific Monday, and gives some interesting facts about it.

When the Tahiti was completed on the Clyde its first trip was a charter voyage given by Emperor Wilhelm of Germany to several of his friends—a voyage among the fjords of Norway.

The ship was constructed originally for the Jamaica fruit trade and its first name was Kingston Castle. Later it was sold to the United Steamship Company of New Zealand and its name changed to Tahiti. On the declaration of the World War it was the first transport to land colonial troops in Europe, these troops coming from New Zealand. This was fitting, as New Zealand started the custom of the colonies helping the mother country in time of war, this being started by sending troops to help England in the Boer war. During the World War New Zealand had 57,032 casualties, 16,500 deaths and only 45 officers made prisoners.

'Czar's Daughter' Asks Extension of Time. NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Anastasia Tchaikovsky, who has been called the Grand Duchess Anastasia because of her claim that she is the daughter of the late Czar Nicholas II, has applied for an extension of six months of her temporary permit to remain in the United States.

Mme. Tchaikovsky is out of the city, her attorneys said today. They added they knew of no reason why the application should not be granted.

Several days ago the department of labor announced it was trying to get in touch with her to request that she apply for an extension or prepare to leave the country.

Mme. Tchaikovsky arrived in the United States several years ago, announcing she had escaped the execution of other members of the family. Although members of the Romanoff family have declared her an impostor, many persons, including several of wealth and social position in the United States have believed her story and aided her.

Airplane Salesman Dies in Tampa Crash. TAMPA, Fla., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Phillip M. Neff, aviator of Jacksonville, Fla., died in an ambulance on the way to a hospital here this afternoon as the result of an airplane crash at the municipal airport.

He was an employee of the Tropical Airways Corporation, of Jacksonville, and was flying an Aeronca plane. Authorities at the field said he arrived here from Orlando at 1 p. m. taking off at 1:25 p. m., a "city" wind got under a wing and turned his plane over 50 feet from the ground.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Phillip M. Neff, killed in an airplane crash at Tampa today, came here from Norfolk, Va., about a month ago. He formerly was a navy flier.

Neff was employed by the Tropical Airways Corporation as an airplane salesman.

He was said to have left here yesterday for Tampa via Orlando.

CURTIS WILL PROBABLY ASKED BY CREDITOR. CORNING, N. Y., Aug. 19.—(AP)—An attorney representing a creditor of the Herring-Curtiss Company, today filed with Surrogate John C. Wheeler a petition asking a trustee of the will of the late Glenn H. Curtiss, pioneer aviator.

Recently the same attorney sought an order to compel Curtiss' widow to show cause why the will should not be probated in Steuben county. Her counsel asked that the order be vacated and Surrogate Wheeler has allowed 10 days in which to file briefs.

The will previously had been filed for probate in Miami, Fla.

The suit was filed by Heath as the executor's next of kin. He asked that Olin R. Clements, attorney, be

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

IMPY MEETS A COUSIN.
By Thornton W. Burgess.

Such friends we have as we may make:
Our relatives we have to take.
—Stripped Chipmunk.

Despite the warning he had received from his father, Striped Chipmunk, Impy the Black Chipmunk persisted in staying out later than any of the others of his family. He liked to be out after the coming of the Black Shadows. You see, owing to that black coat of his, he felt very safe then. He felt that he couldn't be seen and so had little to fear. Quite naturally he knew very little about the night-seeing folk, the ones who like best to hunt at night. He knew nothing about eyes made for seeing in the dark. Sometimes he himself could see very little by the time he went to bed. He didn't know that there were others who could see very well at that hour. To be sure, Striped Chipmunk had told him about the Owl family, but never having seen a member of the Owl family, he couldn't understand about those wonderful night-seeing eyes.

As a rule, Impy did not venture far from the entrance to his home after the coming of the Black Shadows. He usually sat where he could direct right into that entrance at the first alarm. Once in a while, however, when he felt a little bolder than usual, he would venture farther away from home. It happened one afternoon that Impy was quite a little distance from home when the first of the Black Shadows came creeping across the Green Meadows. He really wasn't far away. At least, you wouldn't have thought it far. But it was far enough so that in case of danger he would have to scamper a little way before he could dive to safety between the stones of the old wall.

Now, of course, the wise and proper thing would have been for Impy to start for home as soon as that first Black Shadow came. But he didn't. He waited for a second Black Shadow to come, and then a third and a fourth. Up overhead he saw the first little stars begin to twinkle. He doubted if his brothers and sisters had ever seen a twinkling star. He felt very bold and very brave.

"I'm afraid," said he to himself, "I don't see why people should

CURTIS WILL PROBABLY ASKED BY CREDITOR. CORNING, N. Y., Aug. 19.—(AP)—An attorney representing a creditor of the Herring-Curtiss Company, today filed with Surrogate John C. Wheeler a petition asking a trustee of the will of the late Glenn H. Curtiss, pioneer aviator.

Recently the same attorney sought an order to compel Curtiss' widow to show cause why the will should not be probated in Steuben county. Her counsel asked that the order be vacated and Surrogate Wheeler has allowed 10 days in which to file briefs.

The will previously had been filed for probate in Miami, Fla.

FAMED VAUDEVILLIAN FIGURES IN BANK FIGHT. MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Thomas K. Heath, member of the famous vaudeville team of McIntyre and Heath, today filed suit in circuit court asking removal of the defunct Biscayne Trust Company and its successor, the Guardian Trust Company, as trustee of the estate of the late Grace M. Heath.

The suit was filed by Heath as the executor's next of kin. He asked that Olin R. Clements, attorney, be

MINISTER OF FINANCE QUILTS SPANISH CABINET. MADRID, Aug. 19.—(AP)—The steady slump of the peseta, which has puzzled government officials and financial experts for several months, resulted today in the resignation of Manuel Arguelles from the ministry of finance.

The cabinet accepted his resignation at a special meeting and appointed Wain, hitherto minister of economy, to succeed him. Luis Rodriguez Viqueira, a minister of agriculture in the conservative cabinet of 1922, succeeded Wain.

While the government did not blame Arguelles for the depression in the Spanish monetary unit, the minister was dissatisfied with the financial situation and with the cabinet's policy of economy, to succeed him. Luis Rodriguez Viqueira, a minister of agriculture in the conservative cabinet of 1922, succeeded Wain.

On the bourse this morning the peseta ranged from 9.30 to 9.40 to the dollar, closing at 9.34 to the dollar and 45.50 to the pound sterling. That was some improvement over recent figures, but since the bourse was closed when the cabinet adjourned, any reaction to the Arguelles resignation will not be reflected until it re-opens Wednesday.

named trustee because of his familiarity with the estate. The estate comprises $100,000 in personal property and $200,000 worth of real property in New York, Kentucky and Florida.

Heath, who is 77, is a winter resident of Miami. His last stage appearance was at a Palm Beach benefit last winter where boxes sold for $1,000 and seats for $25.

'B-C' Will Stop Any Headache In 3 Minutes. Realizing that no one drug can conquer all headaches, as they come from many causes, a North Carolina druggist developed a combination of several ingredients which function together, giving immediate, complete and safe relief for any kind of a headache, neuralgic, sciatic or rheumatic pain, quieting the nerves and leaving you normally buoyant, without depression or bad after effects.

This combination of pain-relieving ingredients, so efficient for relief also at special times, may be found at any drug store or soda fountain under the name "B-C" (10c and 25c), ready for use in easing pains and quieting nerves in three minutes. "B-C" is the most amazing preparation of its kind ever discovered and is guaranteed harmless.—(adv.)

The Trust Department Inaugurates a Movement of Great Value to Atlanta and Its Life Underwriters . . .

THE FULTON NATIONAL BANK, through its Trust Department, will shortly inaugurate a movement which should be of great value and service to all people interested in the creation and preservation of Estates.

To this end the Life Insurance Underwriters of Atlanta will be invited to attend a course of instruction sponsored by this Bank.

At these meetings there will be a thorough discussion on the creation of Life Insurance Estates to assure the financial future of families . . . how such a plan can protect a man or woman's Estate from shrinkage after death . . . how an Estate can assure the continuance of a business enterprise . . . how it can protect the family of a partner or an executive in a business . . . how the Bank, through its Trust Department, manages and settles Estates serving as Executor, Administrator, Guardian and Trustee. Modern and carefully planned Estates will be analyzed and discussed.

The Fulton National Bank believes that through this course, a closer and more scientific understanding of the matter of Estates will be obtained and all of the benefits made available to the public in whose interest are pledged the efforts of the Life Insurance Underwriters and The Fulton National Bank.

Time of meetings and other details will be announced shortly.

SON OF THE GODS

By REX BEACH

INSTALLMENT XI

Lee Yink became daily more attached to his son and as for heart-hungry Pan Yi, the years fell away from her and she bloomed into a girl again. She made frequent thank offerings to the various deities, slighting not even the least important, and she gave expensive presents to her friends, assuming a new importance not only in their eyes but also in the eyes of her own servants by reason of her motherhood.

How good that home was became more apparent as time went on. Only the finest foods were given to the child and they were prepared with the highest skill; his garments were of rich materials and they were embroidered with royal insignia, his toys were numerous and expensive, upon his tiny cap was sewn the ruby button of a Mandarin of the first rank. When the time came for Sam to commence his studies he was not sent to school, a Chinese tutor was engaged for him and his education was begun in the time-honored, orthodox manner, which is to say that a book was put into his chubby hands—an imposing work the introductory statement in which read, "Men at their birth are by nature radically good." This entire volume Sam was forced to memorize.

Hour after hour, day after day, week after week, he repeated, parrot-like, the sentences of his tutor until he could flap them without an error. Page upon page of characters he listlessly traced in total ignorance of their meaning, book after book he learned by rote. He was taught the names of the thousands of arbitrary Chinese word signs, a four years' labor in itself, and in time their significance was made known to him. Not until then did his studies begin to hold interest.

Sam had his occasional holidays, of course; on the birthdays of the gods or during religious festivals his father took him by the hand and led him out upon the streets where he could stare over his shoulder at the entrancing sights. New Year was the most glorious time of all for then, among other things, Sam went with Lee Yink to pay his Year's call and to receive his presents from their friends.

He had no contact whatever with things American, his education was in the oriental school. He was thoroughly Chinese.

Pan Yi ascended the dragon when Sam was 11 years old and he mourned for her as sincerely as did his honorable father. The next year Lee Yink moved to New York.

This change was prompted partly by grief and partly in order that the importer might the better attend to his eastern store which was steadily growing in importance. So, at least, Lee Yink declared. In reality there was another reason for his going. Sam was growing to look more and more like a son of the gods, that is to say, he was growing to look less and less like a Chinese boy.

To the father this was confirmation of his belief in the lad's celestial origin, not that confirmation of an implicit faith was necessary, but he heard whispering that disturbed him and one day Officer Dunne came to him in considerable distress of mind. The women engaged in Chinatown settlement work—the white women—were asking questions. They were meddlesome creatures and to them the dignity, the repose of Lee Yink's declining years meant nothing.

Arrived in New York, Lee Yink set himself up in even better style than formerly and the local Chinese welcomed him as if he were a person of national importance. To the Lees it was much like coming from the real China into a land of barbarians, for New York's Chinatown was but a pale counterfeit of the Chinese quarter in San Francisco. Nevertheless they adapted themselves to it, the curtains of the past fell together behind them, a new life began.

Lee Yink procured an English tutor for Sam, a bespectacled Cantonese with a bulging, pear-shaped head. The fellow had graduated from Yale, and in his hands Sam's education took a new turn. In a year he had learned to speak a stilted, pedantic sort of book-English and there were few tricks of pronunciation that bothered him. He had learned also to wear American clothes which he did whenever he and his myopic tutor went out into the streets. At 14 he had grown into a tall, spindling, owlish youth crammed to the point of indignation with a learning far beyond his years. One day Sam and his tutor were sitting in Mulberry Bend Park, that breathing space tucked in between Chinatown and its environs on the east and the crowded Italian neighborhood to the west of it. It was a favorite resting place of theirs, for here the tutor could read while Sam watched the white children at play. Their amusements were rough and meaningless to the boy, the yelling and the quarreling that went with every game struck him as senseless and undignified, nevertheless he felt a timid eagerness to take a hand.

This day he noticed on the bench next to his a little girl, somewhat younger than himself. She possessed an impudent nose and a pair of imperious blue eyes the which were contradicted by a wistful mouth. When her glance met Sam's she shyly averted it. This happened two or three times, when the little girl smiled. Sam's lips parted. A moment later he was standing at her side.

"Are you sick, too?" she inquired. Sam shook his head. "I been sick. I most died."

"I am sorry," he managed to say. "Wasn't you ever sick?"

"No. I have been remarkably free from disease."

"Well, why don't you play with other kids? You're Chinese, ain't you? Gee, you don't talk like a Chinaman. . . . I bet it's hard to talk Chinese. . . . We had three doctors at our house and my ma's hair turned gray in a single night. Why don't you play? I'd play if I could, but I can't. Don't you like to play?"

"My father hates it now," Sam said. "My father prefers to have me improve my mind. He says those who would win honor in their studies must learn mental discipline."

"My father never went to school. He's an assemblyman and he goes to Albany and makes laws. Say, everybody jumps through when he tell 'em to! . . . Gee, it must be funny to be a Chinaman! I'd rather be sick."

This young person's frankness and impetuosity were embarrassing but she was a friendly soul and her interest in Sam was unaffected. Her rudeness was unintentional and merely the result of an eager curiosity. Her name was Ellen Cassidy and that was her brother, Jim, young Jim fetched her here every day. They lived down on Oliver street.

"My pa took me in your store one day. Gee! It's big. You live upstairs, don't you? I live in a regular house. . . . I like stores that small good, like yours. Can you buy anything you want in there? . . . Pa says you're awful rich."

When he and his tutor walked home Sam was outwardly sedate, but inwardly he was in upheaval. His notions of white children had entirely altered, there was a strange warm feeling in his breast. He had a friend.

Ellen's brother Jim was a healthy, burly-looking boy and he resented playing the effeminate role of nursemaid, so in the days that followed he more than willingly surrendered the care of his sister to Sam Lee and proceeded to amuse himself. Daily Sam brought presents to his little friend and in consequence his status with the other children changed. They began to regard him with something besides contempt. Seeing in him a source of possible revenue they assumed a demeanor wholly artificial—it was an experience, by the way, with which he was destined to become all too familiar as time went on.

Ellen Cassidy proved one day that she, at least, was a stout and loyal friend. On this occasion Sam had brought her not ivory, nor agate, nor silk as usual, but his own most cherished possession, his fighting crickets. There were three of them, each housed in a gourd elaborately carved and colored to resemble a blooming flower and provided with a perforated ivory cover highly decorated.

A Missing Race Horse

By SIR ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE

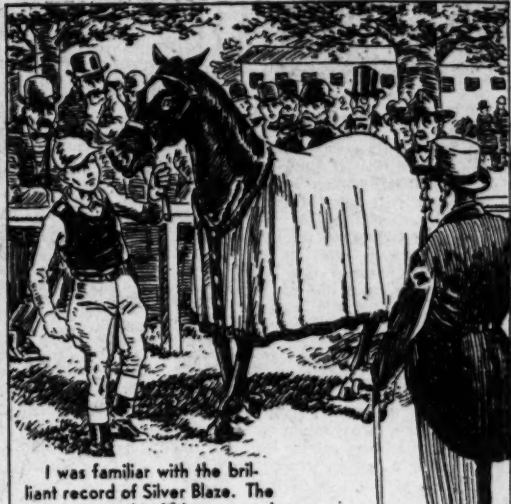

"To Dartmoor; to King's Pyland." I was not surprised. My only wonder was he had not been mixed up already in this extraordinary case, which was the one topic of conversation throughout England.

For a whole day my companion had rambled about the room with his chin upon his chest and his brows knitted, chasing and recharging his pipe with the strongest black tobacco, and absolutely deaf to any of my questions or remarks.

Fresh editions of every paper had been sent up by our news agent, only to be glanced over and tossed into a corner. I knew perfectly well about what he was brooding. There was just one problem before the public to challenge his powers—the singular disappearance of Silver Blaze, the favorite for the Wesser Cup, and the tragic murder of its trainer, John Straker.

I was familiar with the brilliant record of Silver Blaze. The horse was in his fifth year, and had brought back the prizes of the turf to his fortunate owner, Colonel Ross. Up to the time of the disappearance, Silver Blaze had been the favorite for the Wesser Cup, the betting being three to one on him.

College Park Mayor Lauds Water Supply

On the heels of completion of the construction of a modern filtration plant, thus assuring pure water for College Park, Mayor E. D. Barrett Tuesday issued a statement outlining the care taken in the purification process and praising council and the administration for its foresight in providing ample and pure water for the municipality.

Progress on the work was pushed despite severe injunctions and reports that the water would not be pure when the plant was completed, it was said.

DOOLY COUNTY COTTON FIELD TO BE INSPECTED

Barbecue and Speeches Feature Farmers' Rally at Byronville Saturday.

BYRONVILLE, Ga., Aug. 19.—(Special.)—On Saturday, August 23, on the plantation of S. B. Byron, Byronville, Dooly county, there will be a barbecue and entertainment for middle and south Georgia farmers, bankers, merchants, county agents and agricultural officials of the state and railroads operating in that section.

The occasion is the inspection of the largest cotton field demonstration ever before operated in the south, and for the discussion of improved and economic methods in farm operations.

This 150-acre cotton field demonstration has been operated this season by Mr. Byron in cooperation with the better farming campaign of which Harvie Jordan is managing director. Restricting the cotton acreage and increasing food and feed crops is the slogan of the campaign.

Invitations have been broadcast over the state and large delegations from several counties in Georgia and southwest Alabama are expected. Special addresses will be delivered by Congressman Charles R. O'Connell, Eugene R. Talmadge, commissioner of agriculture, E. C. Westbrook, cotton specialist, Athens; Dr. Phil Campbell, Athens; J. A. Thompson, Roba, Ala.; Martin Amos, Marietta, and short talks by leading farmers and bankers from middle and south Georgia.

The present cotton situation and methods for combating low banded crops for the staple will be discussed and acted upon, according to the program.

The morning conference, with Harvie Jordan as chairman, will be held from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m. in "Coney Island grove," just on the edge of Byronville, after which the inspection of the field demonstration, methods of fertilization, kind of seed planted and methods of culture and harvesting will take place.

ALABAMA FUGITIVE CAUGHT IN GEORGIA

WEST POINT, Ga., Aug. 19.—Hilda Elder, 17-year-old youth wanted as a fugitive from the Alabama Boys' Industrial School Reformatory at Birmingham, was taken into custody Monday by Chief J. P. Hammett, and turned over to Alabama authorities upon identification by Chief J. K. Berry, of Lanett. Elder is said to have broken into the Langdale Drug Company's place at Langdale, Ala., and into a store at Calera, Ala., since his escape from the reformatory. It was said that Elder's home is at Langdale.

TWO HELD IN JAIL AFTER RAID ON STILL

ATHENS, Ga., Aug. 19.—Two white men, T. A. Bonner and W. G. Colley, are in the federal compartment of the Clarke county jail here in connection with a raid on a still in Glynn county by federal and county officers. The men were arrested by R. F. Thomas and D. L. Floyd, of Athens, and W. D. Taylor, of Glynn county, on Wednesday. They were held in preliminary trial.

Hub Jordan, of Athens, and Grady Crump, of Franklin county, were arrested in connection with transporting whiskey. Jordan made bond in the amount of $1,000 and Crump was confined in jail in default of $300 bond.

Chattanooga Convicts Fine Cabbage Raisers

SUMMERVILLE, Ga., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Convicts of Chattanooga county have gone in for cabbages. More than 4,000 pounds have been used and sold from the two-acre cabbage patch at the convict camp near here this year. In addition to the cabbage used by the prisoners and sold to local merchants, more than 200 gallons of sauerkraut have been made and stored for winter use. Still, many cabbages are left in the patch.

This year two acres produced 200 bushels of Irish potatoes and large supplies of beans, okra, corn and turnips. Captain T. A. Mabburn has been superintendent of the camp for 15 years.

NEGROES WILL BUILD HOME FOR GIRLS

FORT VALLEY, Ga., Aug. 19.—The organized negro women of Georgia are working to build a home for young negro girls who fall into the hands of the courts and who are too young to be placed along with other criminals. They have purchased at a cost of $750 a 10-acre plot about seven miles from Macon on the Jeffersonville road and a southern white man has agreed to give them $2,500 if they will raise a like amount.

The project is being fostered by the Georgia State Federation of Colored Women and negro women throughout the state who are to raise the $2,500.

5-Foot Diamond Rattler Captured by Georgian

SHELLMAN, Ga., Aug. 19.—While gathering ferns in a swamp near here last week, Floyd Crozier discovered a five-foot diamond rattler, which he captured and now has on display in a wire cage at his home. The snake will probably be shipped to Atlanta to battle "Old Tiger," the famous king snake.

TOBACCO CO-OPERATIVE FORESEEN FOR STATE

VALDOSTA, Ga., Aug. 19.—(Special.)—As the 1930 tobacco season hurries toward its close a well-grounded belief is expressed that before another marketing season opens, Georgia growers will have formed by the requirements of the federal farm board regulations. Those who express the belief that this organization will be perfected, state that perhaps in the majority of instances tobacco warehousemen will be in favor of the movement, and they also express the opinion that the organization purely for the purpose of securing government loans will mean failure. However, it is contended that if the co-operative is formed properly and carries on its business to the last limit before ever soliciting farm relief, it may be of some benefit.

Such an organization will mean an entire change in marketing plans, the abandonment of the auction system and the building of bonded warehouses, and selling according to the seven grades established by the government. It is suggested that eventually the plan will be to buy the tobacco from the growers at a price which will reduce the expense of maintaining a corps of buyers on each market during the season.

Other officers elected were: W. H. Lovett, of Wrightsville, director of the Wrightsville and Tennessean; William McMillan, of Swainsboro, director of the Waynesboro; H. P. Smart, of Savannah, member of the executive committee of the Waynesboro.

W. L. Phillips, of Louisville, executive committee member of Louisville and Waynesboro; J. Evans, of Waynesboro, director of the Savannah Central; W. E. Hudson, member of the executive committee of the Savannah Central.

GOOD LEAF GRADES BRING FAIR PRICES

VALDOSTA, Ga., Aug. 19.—Tobacco sales on Valdosta market Monday reached a total of 743,200 pounds for $72,185, an average of a fraction less than $100 a ton.

Good grades brought a very fair price, while common sold at a very low figure. Growers who have already sold their common stock are now getting good money, although it is not reflected in the daily average.

QUITMAN, Ga., Aug. 19.—A total of 94,076 pounds of tobacco was sold Tuesday on the floors of the two warehouses in Quitman, according to official figures. Tobacco today brought an average price of 11 1/2 cents a pound. The market will close in Quitman Wednesday, August 27.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Offerings were light at the tobacco market here Tuesday, with only about 10,000 pounds on the warehouse floor. Grades were very ordinary and the average price was 9 1/2 cents a hundred. The Thomasville market is expected to close Friday.

DOUGLAS, Ga., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Official tobacco sales on the Douglas market Monday were 787,024 pounds, bringing $70,300.45, or an average of $8.95 per 100 pounds. The grades were mixed.

DRAKETOWN CHURCH PLANS HOME-COMING

DRAKETOWN, Ga., Aug. 19.—There will be a home-coming of the former pastors and members at All-god's church, near here, next Sunday, August 24. This church was organized about 100 years ago and all those whose relatives were members or are buried here are urged to be present.

Rev. J. Lee Allgood, presiding elder of the Athens district, who is a great-grandson of the founder of the church, will preach at 11 o'clock.

Others on the program for music and addresses are Rev. J. B. McBrayer, Colonel Charles B. McGarity, Judge Thomas A. Hutcheson, Judge E. S. Griffith and others.

The committee has tried to send personal invitations to all former members, but could not locate all. Rev. George T. Bell, the pastor, will be in charge of the revival that follows the home-coming.

LOCUST GROVE SCHOOL WILL OPEN AUGUST 29

McDONOUGH, Ga., Aug. 19.—Locust Grove High school will open August 29. Pupils will be classified and furnished book lists and lesson assignments on that day. Regular work will begin September 1.

The school will operate under the same system as the usual public school. Since the county funds must be supplemented to provide a nine-month term, the first month will be on a tuition basis. The public session will begin in October. To be promoted all pupils must attend the full session.

The following teachers have been re-elected: George H. Hume, Miss Ruth Middlebrooks, Miss Annie Sue Peek, Miss Annie Rowan, Miss Seena Swan, Miss Mattie Joe Pullin, Miss Elizabeth Patterson.

COVINGTON SCHOOLS TO OPEN SEPTEMBER 1

COVINGTON, Ga., Aug. 19.—The Covington public schools will open on Monday, September 1. Preparation has been made to receive a very large enrollment for the coming year. The school officials are carefully planning for one of the most successful years in the history of Covington. The faculty for the term 1930-1931 is as follows: Professor W. B. Baldwin, superintendent; Professor C. E. Hawkins, principal; Professor W. L. Bowen, science; Miss Rosalee Radford, Latin and French; Miss Betty Everett, English; Mrs. Carl Wiegand, history; Miss Cassie McClain, mathematics and science; Miss Fletcher Lou Lunsford, piano; Miss Martha Estes, violin; Mrs. A. P. Wooten, librarian.

Grammar School. Miss Alma Waters, seventh grade; Miss Eleanor Piper, sixth grade; Miss Hortense Braxwell, fifth grade; Miss Katherine Lane, fourth grade; Miss Maxine Royston, fourth grade; Miss Dorothy Lee, third grade; Miss Lucy Robinson, second grade; Mrs. W. K. Swan, third grade; Mrs. J. E. Phillips, first grade.

Revival Closes. DOUGLASVILLE, Ga., Aug. 10. The ten-day revival closed here Sunday night with about 30 professions of faith. Dr. Robin Parker was the preacher in charge and Professor J. Theodore Phillips led the singing.

Greene May Be Run By County Manager

GREENSBORO, Ga., Aug. 19.—(AP)—A petition is being circulated among voters in the county to determine whether a change in the present system of government to the county manager form is desired in Greene county.

To get an election on the question, one-fifth of the qualified voters of the county must sign the petition. Under the plan for a county manager, authorized by the legislature in 1922, the board of county commissioners would be empowered to employ a man to handle the business of the county. The manager would not be a member of the board and the board would have to concur before any contract could be let or an order passed.

Loyal Negro Servant For Fifty Years Dies in McDonough

McDONOUGH, Ga., Aug. 19.—Anne Green, the beloved negro servant of the late Dr. McDonough, died suddenly Sunday night in the home of her mistress.

Anne had been a faithful, loyal, trustworthy, devoted servant for more than 50 years. She had ministered to the home of Dr. L. M. Tye, father of Mrs. Turner, and moving with her young mistress into her home, Anne had been with the family for more than 50 years. She had ministered to Mrs. Turner for 24 years. She was still actively attending her mistress when she died.

As mammy, she had nursed and cherished each of the children in the family. To her they never grew up without her. Ruth, Nina and Robert, Josephine, Mrs. Douglas Henderson, of Tallahassee, Fla., and Paul (Paul Turner, of California). These children were equally devoted to her and the first Mrs. D. T. Fulton, of DeLand, Fla.; Mrs. Lamar Etheridge, of Atlanta, and Robert T. Turner, of McDonough, will attend the funeral services Tuesday morning at Ellenwood to pay their last tribute to dear old Anne.

So wrapped up in the interests of "Miss Josie" was Anne that when she returned to Ellenwood each year for her vacation, she would sit in the door facing McDonough and keep her eyes following her heart, in that direction. The work and cut her visit short, staying only three days, so as not to be separated.

She will be carried to Ellenwood and funeral services will be held at County Line Baptist church. Interment will be in the churchyard.

SLAYING AND LIQUOR LEAD TO ARRESTS

AMERICUS, Ga., Aug. 19.—Three arrests were made here Tuesday by Sheriff Willis McArthur, aided by Deputy Sheriff Walter Chappell and Officer J. A. Hootch. As a result, Walter Johnson has been lodged in jail on a charge of murder, Lynn Murphy, another negro, is held on a liquor charge and M. E. Seagins is at liberty on bail after being arrested on a charge of possessing liquor.

Johnson, the officers allege, killed Ben Sapp, negro, recently, near Cobb, in this county, the killing following a family row involving the wife of Johnson who is also the daughter of Sapp, and other complications. Sapp died as the result of gunshot wounds following a general shooting affray near Johnson's house.

A crude still was found on the premises of Murphy near the house of here, together with a quantity of "huck," ownership of which was admitted by Murphy. He asserts he knows nothing concerning the still, which was destroyed by the officers, who allege it was the property of Murphy.

Seagins, who was arrested upon complaint of a negro with whom he conveyed his automobile collided night says a quantity of liquor found near the scene of the crash belonged to the negro while the negro claims it was brought there by the white man. Seagins operates an automobile garage here and is well known in this section.

LEE COUNTIAN GROWS 230 ACRES OF PEANUTS

LEESBURG, Ga., Aug. 19.—That farming conditions are rapidly improving, that production per acre is being increased, that in some lines operating expenses are being decreased, is evidenced by a 230-acre peanut field on the plantation of Judge S. M. Stocks eight miles southeast of Leesburg in the Red Bone district of Lee county.

Peanut Rows 2 Miles Long. This peanut "patch" contains approximately 230 acres, more or less, and is located parallel with the Philena highway and the G. S. V. & G. railway. The rows in places are two miles long, the vines are of healthy size, and this year it is said the yield will be from 750 to 1,000 pounds per acre, or in some parts two acres will produce a ton on an average, it is estimated. At this time all peanut poles have been placed and everything is in readiness for gathering this crop, which will begin in a short time. Mr. Stocks sold the first peanuts on the market last year and it appears now he will again lead this year.

Expenses and Production. That the lowest peanut is not a bad crop when the cost of production is he'll down to the minimum and how this may be done is well illustrated by Mr. Stocks on his farm. He has a clean-cut demonstration of what can be done with tractor farming. He has approximately 230 acres in peanuts planted and cultivated entirely with tractor plows.

Mr. Stocks has not kept accurate records on the cost of production but from the facts ascertained from other available information County Agent H. J. France has worked out an estimated cost of production which is given as follows:

Breaking land (230) .....$ 222.75
Harrowing ..... 67.50
Planting ..... 47.25
Weeding 31 times ..... 70.87
Pinning three times ..... 141.75
Harvesting (estimated at 2500 lbs. per acre) ..... 375.00
Land rent ..... 245.00
Overhead and depreciation ..... 300.00
Total cost .....$2,310.12

Estimated yield 750 lbs. per acre, 80 tons, 80 tons $70 .....$5,600.00
Less total cost .....2,310.12
Estimated profit .....$3,289.88
Profit per acre .....$14.10

It is said that the peanut hay at a fair price will pay for the cost of threshing. This is a conservative estimate, so much in fact, it does not give Mr. Stocks credit for what he has already accomplished.

STAPLES-MAGINNIS WEDDING IS SOLEMNIZED TUESDAY

Ceremony Is Performed At First Baptist Church

The marriage of Miss Jeanette Fontaine Staples, daughter of Mrs. J. M. Staples, and Robert Lyon Maginnis, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Maginnis, was impressively solemnized at a double ring ceremony last evening at 9 o'clock at the First Baptist church on Peachtree street. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Louis D. Newton, pastor of the Druid Hills Baptist church, in the presence of a gathering of fashionable society of Atlanta, including many relatives of the bride and groom.

The church was effectively decorated with palms, ferns and quantities of white flowers. The altar was banked with palms, and at artistic intervals on the platform were placed tall white, seven-branched candelabra, holding burning white tapers, which cast a soft glow over the church, this being the entire lighting effect. Tall floor baskets holding white asters, white gladioli and lilies were placed on the sides of the altar. The pews marking the seats of the families and close relatives were marked by clusters of lilies tied with satin and tulle ribbon.

Preceding the ceremony and during the taking of the marriage vows an appropriate program of nuptial music was rendered on the organ by George L. Hamrick, well-known Atlanta musician and organist of the First Baptist church. As a processional he played the Bridal Chorus from "Lohengrin" by Wagner, and as a recessional the Wedding March from Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream" was played.

Bridal Party.

Entering the church first were the ushers and groomsmen, who were: William White, Russell Turner, T. B. Higdon, Frank Taylor, J. R. Murdoch, Henry Floyd, William Maginnis and James Horne.

The maid of honor was Miss Malesa Cater, of Meridian, Miss., a cousin of the bride. The matron of honor was Mrs. Forrest Adair, Jr. The bridesmaids included: Miss Cara Hinman, Mrs. Arthur LeCraw, Miss Mary Primm and Mrs. Charles Meriwether.

Before her marriage this summer was Miss Elizabeth Little. The attendants were: Miss Mary Primm, Miss Elizabeth Little, the bride's mother, and the bride's father, Mr. J. M. Staples.

The bride wore a gown of white satin, made princess style, and touching the floor, the back dipping into a small train. It was trimmed with tiny seed pearls at the "V" neck at the net insertion, and also at the cuffs, which were made with the same design. Her veil was of white tulle combined with Valencia lace and fell in graceful folds to the floor. It was caught to her head in cap shape, and the cap was fashioned from a lace handkerchief which belonged to the bride's maternal grandmother, the late Mrs. Annie Wilson Burke, of Atlanta, a sister of

Lovely Bride.

The beauty of the bride was emphasized by her exquisite wedding gown, as she entered the church with her great-uncle, John Aldredge, by whom she was given in marriage, and they were met at the altar by the groom and his brother, James Maginnis, who acted as best man. The bride's gown was of white satin, made princess style, and touching the floor, the back dipping into a small train. It was trimmed with tiny seed pearls at the "V" neck at the net insertion, and also at the cuffs, which were made with the same design. Her veil was of white tulle combined with Valencia lace and fell in graceful folds to the floor. It was caught to her head in cap shape, and the cap was fashioned from a lace handkerchief which belonged to the bride's maternal grandmother, the late Mrs. Annie Wilson Burke, of Atlanta, a sister of back, and a small shoulder cape fell in graceful lines in the back, and was trimmed with tiny lace ruffles. They wore satin slippers to match their costumes, and long lace mits of the same colors. Their only ornaments were crystal necklaces, gifts of the bride.

Following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Maginnis, parents of the groom, entertained the wedding party at an informal reception at their home on Emory road. Mrs. Maginnis received the guests wearing an evening gown of light blue satin, gracefully draped and trimmed with rhinestones. She wore a shoulder bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Staples, mother of the bride, was gowned in orchid lace, made princess style with long flowing skirt, and her corsage was of orchids and valley lilies. Mrs. John Aldredge, great-uncle of the bride, wore a bronze lace, made over brown chiffon, and she wore a corsage of orchids and valley lilies.

Among the out-of-town guests present were: Mrs. E. Cabu, of Meridian, Miss.; Mrs. William Lyon, of New York city, grandmother of the groom; Ernest Morrison, of Meridian, Miss.; Mrs. C. R. Williams, of Belford, N. J., aunt of the groom; Franklin Cater, of Chattanooga, Tenn., cousin of the bride, and Allen Gant, of Pensacola, Florida.

Following the reception Mr. and Mrs. Maginnis left for a wedding journey through North Carolina and Tennessee, and on their return they will make their home on East Pace's Ferry road.

Ponemah Council Sponsors Festival.

Ponemah Council No. 28 Degree of Pocahontas, will sponsor an ice cream social Friday, August 22, from 4:30 to 10:30 o'clock at Joyner Park on North avenue. Tickets are 10 cents and an invitation is extended to the public.

Mrs. John Aldredge. The corner of the handkerchief over her face was caught with a coronet of orange blossoms, and the cap was shaped to her head with the orange blossoms. She carried a hug: arm bouquet of orchids and valley lilies, combined with swainsson, and tied with white satin ribbon. Her slippers were of white satin trimmed with rosettes of lace and orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a tiny string of seed pearls, which was presented her by her great-uncle, Mrs. John Aldredge, who wore the pearls in her young ladyhood when she was Miss Jennie Wilson, of Atlanta.

Small Reception.

Following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Maginnis, parents of the groom, entertained the wedding party at an informal reception at their home on Emory road. Mrs. Maginnis received the guests wearing an evening gown of light blue satin, gracefully draped and trimmed with rhinestones. She wore a shoulder bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Staples, mother of the bride, was gowned in orchid lace, made princess style with long flowing skirt, and her corsage was of orchids and valley lilies. Mrs. John Aldredge, great-uncle of the bride, wore a bronze lace, made over brown chiffon, and she wore a corsage of orchids and valley lilies.

Among the out-of-town guests present were: Mrs. E. Cabu, of Meridian, Miss.; Mrs. William Lyon, of New York city, grandmother of the groom; Ernest Morrison, of Meridian, Miss.; Mrs. C. R. Williams, of Belford, N. J., aunt of the groom; Franklin Cater, of Chattanooga, Tenn., cousin of the bride, and Allen Gant, of Pensacola, Florida.

Following the reception Mr. and Mrs. Maginnis left for a wedding journey through North Carolina and Tennessee, and on their return they will make their home on East Pace's Ferry road.

FOLLOW THE CROWDS TO RICH'S! . . . . .

"... come see what Mother bought at Rich's!"

She's barely three years old . . . with honey-colored curls that cluster 'round eyes like two surprised forget-me-nots . . . but she's not too young to ask questions—and draw her own conclusions!

"Where have you been?" she always asks when Mother returns from a shopping jaunt.

"To Rich's," is the inevitable answer.

Then each package must be opened under the interested surveillance of the two blue eyes . . . and again the question:

"Where did you get it, Mother?"

And again the inevitable answer, "At Rich's, Dear."

Then one fine June day the stork swooped down to leave a wee baby sister at the little Three-Year-Old's house. Grandmother called her in for a brief peek at the tiny face . . . then off she went, curls flying, to Junior's house next door.

"Oh," she cried breathlessly, "DO come and see what Mother just bought at Rich's!"

Miss Jenkins will be hostess today at Brookhaven, the Capital City Country Club, at a luncheon in compliment to this attractive visitor. Miss Jenkins will be assisted in entertaining the guests by her mother, Mrs. William Jenkins. Covers will be placed for Misses Allen, Louise Robert, Barbara Ransom, Elizabeth Thompson, Harriet Wynne, Octavia Riley, Lila Carter, Mary Cobb Hunnicutt, Jacqueline Moore, Catherine Flagler, Frances Clarke, Josephine Clayton, Miss Jenkins and Mrs. Jenkins.

Miss Myrtis Morgan Weds Mr. Mobley.

Of much interest to their many friends is the marriage of Miss Myrtis Morgan and Coleman D. Mobley, which was quietly solemnized Friday evening at the Kirkwood Baptist church, the Rev. J. L. Jackson officiating.

The bride was lovely in her wedding costume, a navy blue georgette ensemble with peach colored blouse and blue accessories to match. Her carriage was of roses and lilies of the valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Mobley left immediately after the ceremony for a wedding trip to points of interest in North Carolina.

The bride, who is a daughter of Judge and Mrs. V. S. Morgan, of Decatur, Ga., is well known in educational circles, having been a teacher in the Atlanta public schools for a number of years.

Mr. Mobley, the groom, is a member of a prominent Georgia family, being the son of Mrs. N. D. Mobley, of Atlanta, and the late J. T. Mobley, of Jasper county.

Visitors Honored At Small Luncheon.

Mrs. Franklin Crommelin, of Evansville, Ind., the guest of Mrs. Ann Bates Walsh, and Mrs. C. R. Pritchard, who recently returned from California, were honor guests yesterday at a small luncheon given by Mrs. Louise Youngs and Mrs. A. C. McCall, at the home of Mrs. Youngs on Lullwater road, at 1 o'clock. The luncheon table was overlaid with a real lace cover and gracing the center was a silver basket filled with pastel-shaded summer garden flowers. Invited to meet the honor guests were 12 friends of the hostesses.

Miss Catherine Agnew Is Honor Guest.

Good, Milton Andrews, Hoyt McPherson, Mark Craig, Otto Barfield, H. O. Silver, John F. Cone, Harry Johnson and Homer McDonald.

Miss Ethelyn Claire Is Luncheon Hostess.

Miss Ethelyn Claire, the vicious movie picture actress, who is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Williamson, entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Biltmore, her guests including Al Richmond, Ernest Rogers and William O. Key, Jr., members of the newspaper fraternity.

Miss Claire arrived in Atlanta several days ago from Hollywood, "all the way from the coast," where she is better known in the "glamorous" suggestion of yesterday that it might be a good thing to permit condemned men to commit suicide. The opportunities for self-destruction should, in fact, be facilitated, the Irish writer and commentator declared.

"Every condemned man," said the dramatist without flicking an eyelash, "should have a collection of poisons and sherry at St. Paul's, and if he chooses to use them"—he left the sentence suggestively unfinished but went on: "I think a condemned man should be told that on a certain day he would be hanged and if by that day he was not dead, having been provided with every possible convenience for committing suicide, he would have to suffer execution."

Shaw Favors Helping Slayers To Kill Selves

LONDON, Aug. 19.—(P)—George Bernard Shaw today characteristicly went down Dean Lane, St. Paul's, one better in endorsing the "glamorous" suggestion of yesterday that it might be a good thing to permit condemned men to commit suicide. The opportunities for self-destruction should, in fact, be facilitated, the Irish writer and commentator declared.

"Every condemned man," said the dramatist without flicking an eyelash, "should have a collection of poisons and sherry at St. Paul's, and if he chooses to use them"—he left the sentence suggestively unfinished but went on: "I think a condemned man should be told that on a certain day he would be hanged and if by that day he was not dead, having been provided with every possible convenience for committing suicide, he would have to suffer execution."

Shaw declared that he always felt deeply obliged to a condemned killer who committed suicide, because he saves a great deal of trouble and expense.

FAMOUS GUTTENBERG BIBLE REPORTED SOLD

KLINGENFURT, Austria, Aug. 19.—(P)—The so-called "42-lined" Gutenberg Bible, which for 400 years has been in possession of the Saint Blasius monastery at St. Paul, Klingenfurt, today was reported sold to Dr. Otto Vollbrecht, of New York city.

It was believed the Bible, together with a collection of first editions, will be resold to the congressional library.

Mr. and Mrs. Mobley left immediately after the ceremony for a wedding trip to points of interest in North Carolina.

The bride, who is a daughter of Judge and Mrs. V. S. Morgan, of Decatur, Ga., is well known in educational circles, having been a teacher in the Atlanta public schools for a number of years.

Mr. Mobley, the groom, is a member of a prominent Georgia family, being the son of Mrs. N. D. Mobley, of Atlanta, and the late J. T. Mobley, of Jasper county.

Visitors Honored At Small Luncheon.

Mrs. Franklin Crommelin, of Evansville, Ind., the guest of Mrs. Ann Bates Walsh, and Mrs. C. R. Pritchard, who recently returned from California, were honor guests yesterday at a small luncheon given by Mrs. Louise Youngs and Mrs. A. C. McCall, at the home of Mrs. Youngs on Lullwater road, at 1 o'clock. The luncheon table was overlaid with a real lace cover and gracing the center was a silver basket filled with pastel-shaded summer garden flowers. Invited to meet the honor guests were 12 friends of the hostesses.

Miss Catherine Agnew Is Honor Guest.

Mrs. R. F. McDonald was hostess at a shower and tea Tuesday afternoon at her home on Peachtree road in honor of Miss Catherine Agnew, bride-elect. Misses Frances and Sarah Cone, Master Harry Johnson, Jr., and Mrs. Harry Johnson, Sr., assisted in entertaining.

The guests included: Misses Catherine Agnew, Florence Smith, Katherine Wilkerson, Helen Moore, Frances Cone, Sarah Cone, Frances Agnew, Donald, Martha McDonald, Frances Just and Mesdames E. N. Good, Milton Andrews, Hoyt McPherson, Mark Craig, Otto Barfield, H. O. Silver, John F. Cone, Harry Johnson and Homer McDonald.

Miss Ethelyn Claire Is Luncheon Hostess.

Miss Ethelyn Claire, the vicious movie picture actress, who is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Williamson, entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Biltmore, her guests including Al Richmond, Ernest Rogers and William O. Key, Jr., members of the newspaper fraternity.

Miss Claire arrived in Atlanta several days ago from Hollywood, "all the way from the coast," where she is better known in the "glamorous" suggestion of yesterday that it might be a good thing to permit condemned men to commit suicide. The opportunities for self-destruction should, in fact, be facilitated, the Irish writer and commentator declared.

"Every condemned man," said the dramatist without flicking an eyelash, "should have a collection of poisons and sherry at St. Paul's, and if he chooses to use them"—he left the sentence suggestively unfinished but went on: "I think a condemned man should be told that on a certain day he would be hanged and if by that day he was not dead, having been provided with every possible convenience for committing suicide, he would have to suffer execution."

Shaw Favors Helping Slayers To Kill Selves

LONDON, Aug. 19.—(P)—George Bernard Shaw today characteristicly went down Dean Lane, St. Paul's, one better in endorsing the "glamorous" suggestion of yesterday that it might be a good thing to permit condemned men to commit suicide. The opportunities for self-destruction should, in fact, be facilitated, the Irish writer and commentator declared.

"Every condemned man," said the dramatist without flicking an eyelash, "should have a collection of poisons and sherry at St. Paul's, and if he chooses to use them"—he left the sentence suggestively unfinished but went on: "I think a condemned man should be told that on a certain day he would be hanged and if by that day he was not dead, having been provided with every possible convenience for committing suicide, he would have to suffer execution."

Shaw declared that he always felt deeply obliged to a condemned killer who committed suicide, because he saves a great deal of trouble and expense.

FAMOUS GUTTENBERG BIBLE REPORTED SOLD

KLINGENFURT, Austria, Aug. 19.—(P)—The so-called "42-lined" Gutenberg Bible, which for 400 years has been in possession of the Saint Blasius monastery at St. Paul, Klingenfurt, today was reported sold to Dr. Otto Vollbrecht, of New York city.

It was believed the Bible, together with a collection of first editions, will be resold to the congressional library.

'BUSY' GRANT CONQUERS ALLIFF AT NEWPORT

ED HAMM OFF TO A. A. U. MEET AT PITTSBURGH

Olympic Champ Will Enter Broad Jump in National Games.

Ed Hamm, Olympic broad-jumping champion and holder of many world championships in that event in this country and abroad, leaves this morning for Pittsburgh and the National A. A. U. games there on Friday and Saturday.

Hamm will compete only in the broad jump. He is a brilliant sprinter and on a recent tour abroad won 13 running races in competition with the best of Europe.

Hamm hopes to set a new world's record in the event. He held it until a recent ruling of the A. A. U. Federation gave it to a Haitian jumper who outdistanced Hamm's mark in an obscure meet in Paris after the last Olympic games, in which he finished second to Hamm.

Hamm completed his final year of competition at Georgia Tech this spring. Illness and an accident kept him out of shape for any record-breaking performances. He feels that he is ready for another great try this week.

Following the A. A. U. games Hamm is expected to be chosen as one of the team which will meet a picked team of English track stars in the Empire games at Chicago next week.

CHECKER STARS SET FOR MEET

Tourney at Marietta Will Draw State's Best Players.

MARIETTA, Ga., Aug. 19.—At least 50 players are expected to enter the 1930 Georgia state checker tournament to be held here on Thursday and Friday, August 21 and 22. The state's best checker experts will compete for the title won last year by Harold Almond, of Atlanta.

The entrants will convene on Thursday morning, and the entry list will be closed at noon of that day. A fee of $1 will be charged to enter. The games will be played during the two days probably in the Black building on Atlanta street in Marietta.

A. S. Mitchell, president of the Georgia Checker Association, has announced that two-move restriction play will be used throughout the tournament, which means that each player's first move will be decided by chance.

It is hoped that Edwin F. Hunt, southern checker champion, who is in the state, will be present at the tournament, but it is understood that he is not eligible to enter the meet, making his home outside Georgia. Hunt lives in Nashville, Tenn.

Last year's tournament, won by Almond, was held in Greensboro, Ga. A. S. Mitchell, president of the association, won the title for the two years preceding this tournament. R. S. Callaway, of Greensboro, Ga., is the secretary and treasurer of the Georgia Checker Association.

Public Net Meet Enters Third Round

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—(UN) Seven seeded players still remaining in the singles competition of the national public parks tennis tournament have advanced today at the expense of second-round opponents.

George Jennings, Chicago, present titleholder, made his debut, defeating Alan Stauber, Martinsburg, Va., 6-1, 6-2, 6-3. He will meet J. C. Miller, Birmingham, Ala., ninth ranking national player, tomorrow.

In the women's competition, Miss Helen Germaine, New York city, and Mrs. Ruth Martinez, Washington, were the only ones to win second-round matches. They defeated Louise Onwaka, Washington, and Ethel Hans, Buffalo, respectively.

Singer-McLarnin Bout Is Approved

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—(UN) Approval of the proposed Al Singer-Jimmy McLarnin bout in New York September 11, was given by the New York state athletic commission today.

The approval was made after Singer, lightweight champion, agreed to meet Tony Canzoneri not later than November 18.

Grantland Rice SPORTLIGHT

ADVANCE ECHOES.

Just around the corner you can hear the thunder grow; Flying feet are moving with another yard to gain; Just around the corner there is magic in the toe As it boots the spiral fifty yards across the plain.

Faint above the cheering where the polo brilliants play, Dim beyond the busy courts the tennis wizards guard, Just around the corner there are halfbacks on the way Driving at a stubborn line that's fighting for a yard.

Maybe it is overdone—maybe it is wrong, Maybe we are swept too far upon the rolling wave; But give me back the struggle and the banners and the song, On the winds of autumn in the battle of the brave.

MAYBE THE TOUGHEST OF THEM ALL.

BOBBY JONES blew into New York on Tuesday for a two-day business visit, which left him only a short time to talk about golf.

He is willing to admit in advance that his final 1930 stand at Merion next month may be the toughest of them all. "And they are all tough enough," he said, "and getting tougher every year."

"Golf is still golf," remarked the Atlanta attorney. "And always will be. No one can ever tell in advance just what will happen an hour ahead—much less a month. Naturally, I'd like to win, but so would a lot of other entries. In the first place, the problem of the two 18-hole matches in one day is always something to face. I've found that out at least a dozen times before, where it was often a matter of one putt as to whether I would win or lose. And there are enough good amateurs around now to bother any one over the longer route at 36 holes."

"How will it feel to get back to Merion for the last big shot of the year?" I asked him.

"You know how I feel about Merion," he said. "I played in my first national championship over this course in 1916. I won my first amateur championship there in 1924 after it had begun to look as if I could never win one. I'm glad I will have my chance again at Merion—but that doesn't mean much in golf. There is so much that depends on one's mental attitude for any one round, and no one can tell in advance what that will be."

"I think the field there will be one of the strongest in many years with so many young stars coming and such fine golfers as George Voigt, Von Elm, Johnston, Willing, Moe, Tolley, Good, and others around. Most of these are good for a 71 or a 72 any time they are right, and a 71 or a 72 is hard golf to beat. Especially so in an 18-hole match when you suddenly get the feeling that you are down and are running out of holes."

"It's that feeling of running out of holes down the home stretch that makes you desperate. I'm glad to have gotten a lot of rest from golf lately, for I needed it. But whether I can pick up again where I left off is another guess."

WHETHER he wins or loses, Sir Thomas Lipton will have about as many rooters as Bobby Jones. Which is practically enough.

THE NEXT TENNIS CHAMPIONS.

THE battle for the tennis championship now under way at Forest Hills finds three or four survivors who have a good chance, but in stopping young Vines in straight sets at Newport, Bill Tilden gave the world notice that he will have a lot to say about the defense of his national title over the same turf early in September.

Tilden is still traveling on a bad leg, but he should be in shape by the September date to move at top speed again, and he will undoubtedly be favored to win. He will have to be in shape, however, with so many good young stars ready to snipe him at a day's notice.

Vines was among the younger set given a chance to win, but the Californian isn't quite ready for the lanky Philadelphia yet.

A HARD PRESSED KING.

BABE RUTH is having a tough time of it pulling away from Hack Wilson, the slugging Cub. A few years ago Lou Gehrig hung on through early September and then fell away at the finish when Ruth put on a heavy final bombardment. But Wilson is keeping up a steady long distance fire and he shows no signs of surrendering without a struggle.

He is almost sure to lift the National league record into the 50's and may force the Babe to crack his old mark of 60 in order to keep his crown hanging on. This has been one of the best duels of the year, because it has been going on since April and still has six weeks to run. And Hack isn't the type that starts slipping in the stretch, not even when a Ruth is setting the pace.

BACK IN PORT.

CONNIE MACK won four pennants in five years from 1910 through 1914. Then the big dip came and he needed 15 years to build up another winning club. This club won in 1929 and it has just about closed out the show for 1930.

This will make Mack's eighth pennant, which still leaves him two back of McGraw with 10. But Mack has a fairly young club that may be as hard to stop as the old guard that carried McInnis, Collins, Barry and Baker for an infield.

Mickey Cochrane is still young and he will be a big factor for many years to come. Grove and Earnshaw and Walberg are around their prime. Fox and Simmons, two of his best, have a long way to go. The Athletics carry enough class and enough youth to give Mack a shot at McGraw's pennant record before the usual collapse comes—provided McGraw doesn't increase his string in the next two or three years.

Grant Seeks To Prove History Won't Repeat

By Herb Clark.

History, that bane of the existence of innumerable schoolboys, has been said to repeat itself.

Bryan Grant, Atlanta's midge dynamo of the tennis courts, retired to his hotel room at Newport, R. I., last night determined to disprove the truth of that statement. School boys already know it's all a lie. The Casino Club at Newport in the fourth round of the Newport invitation meet.

ANOTHER HELEN FROM OUT WEST UPSETS TOURNEY

18-Year-Old Miss Marlowe Eliminates Veteran New York Star.

By Ted Vosburg, Associated Press Sports Writer.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 18. Eighteen-year-old Helen Marlowe, of Los Angeles, led the California delegation to a series of brilliant victories in the second round of the national women's tennis championship today.

Scoring the first upset of the tournament, this latest of the tennis-playing Helens from the Golden state eliminated the veteran New York player, Eleanor Goss, in straight sets, 7-5, 8-6, to gain a place in the third round.

Despite the absence of their two leading players, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Helen Jacobs, the Californians captured most of the honors of the day, placing seven of their number among the 16 survivors. Only two players from California met defeat in the afternoon.

EAST FALTERS.

Eastern representatives dwindled from 15 to 4 while the middle west's representation fell off from 4 to 2 and the south's from 2 to 1.

The foreign contingent consisting of Betty Nuthall, of England, and the Baroness Giorgio Giacomo Levi, of Italy, came through with smashing straight set victories. Miss Nuthall defeated Mrs. Mary J. Lamme, of Rye, N. Y., 6-1, 6-1, and the baroness, who is the former Maude Rosenbaum, of Chicago, chop-stroked her way to a 6-0, 6-1 decision over Florence Le Bouthillier, of Westbury, N. Y.

Miss Goss, the seventh ranking player in the country and the number 3 seeded entrant, had been expected to win from Miss Marlowe so easily that the match was not deemed worthy of a place on the stadium's center courts. Miss Marlowe is without ranking among the leading players and was not seeded.

MEETS PENNELOPE.

Miss Marlowe will clash tomorrow with Penelope Anderson, of Richmond, Va., the lone surviving representative of the south. Miss Anderson overcame Edith Signourney, Nahant, Mass., 7-5, 7-5.

In the only reverse that the Californian group suffered at the hands of another section all afternoon, Marjorie Gladman, of Santa Monica, was upset by Mrs. J. Dallas Corbiere, of Boston, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Another minor surprise was the victory of Dorothy Weisel, one of the Virginia Hillieries, of Philadelphia, 9-7, 6-4.

WELL EXTENDED.

Although extended to three sets and dangerously near defeat, Edith Rosenbaum, of the White Sulphur Springs, Pa., team, came through against Alice Francis, of Orange, N. J., and will meet Miss Nuthall in the third round tomorrow. The scores were 6-3, 2-6, 6-3.

Other seeded players had little trouble. Sarah Palfrey, 18-year-old Brookline, Mass., star, disposed of Mrs. R. F. Stenz, New York, 6-1, 6-1; Mrs. Anna Harper, of San Francisco, eliminated a fellow Californian, Carolyn Babcock, Los Angeles, 6-4, 6-3; Marjorie Morrill, Dedham, Mass., crushed Ethel Burke, Cincinnati, 6-0, 6-0; Ethel Burkhardt, San Francisco, brushed aside Carolyn Roberts, New Rochelle, N. Y., 6-2, 6-2; Josephine Cruikshank, Santa Ana, Calif., subdued Louise Packer, Rockport, Mass., 6-2, 6-1; and Mary Green, Kansas City, trounced Elizabeth Warren, of Richmond, Va., 6-2, 6-3, in matches involving all of the leading players.

All of the seeded teams won their matches in the national women's doubles championships.

Flowers Stopped By Justo Suarez

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Justo Suarez, Argentine lightweight, knocked out Bruce Flowers, New Rochelle, N. Y., negro, in the sixth round of their 10-round bout at the Queensboro stadium tonight. Each weighed 136 1/2 pounds.

The negro was floored twice before the knockout.

Flowers was helped to his corner by Referee Jack O'Sullivan as the crowd of 14,000, the largest ever to pack its way into the Queensboro bowl, rose as one man to cheer the fighting South American.

In six rounds, Alvie Wolff, Pennsylvania, pointed out a decision over Milton Hutner, formerly of New York University. Wolff weighed 163, his opponent 164.

Chicago Caddies Ride Rails Home

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Four grimy youths were pulled from the top of a coal tender in an outlying railroad station last night.

"Where do you boys, last night detective asked.

"We're almost home, thanks," answered one of them.

"St. Paul—the $10,000 open golf tournament," and the boys identified themselves as Herman Meyers, William Marks, Arthur and John Dugan, caddies for four Chicago professionals. Jack Hutchison, Tom Kelly, Sonny Rouse, and Al Espinosa.

"Ten thousand dollars is a lot of money," put in the detective.

"Yeah," snorted the caddies. "but none of our guys won any of it."

They were released.

LUKE APPLING SOLD TO CHISOX FOR HUGE PRICE

Other Deals Expected To Be Completed Late This Week.

By Ralph McGill.

Two additional members of the Cracker baseball squad will follow Luke Appling to the major leagues, said R. J. Spiller, business manager, Tuesday, coincident with the announcement of Appling's sale to the Chicago White Sox.

Appling was sold for a price said to be in excess of $20,000 and in addition the Atlanta club will be given a player next spring. Under the agreement of the sale, Appling will return to Atlanta in 1931 in the event he fails to stick in the American league.

It was this part of the agreement, said the Cracker business manager, who made the sale, which influenced him to accept the White Sox offer. Appling will not report until the close of the Southern league season on September 14.

"I have two more players who will be sold," said Spiller. "I cannot divulge their identity yet but I expect to complete the deals by the latter part of this week or the first of next."

DEALS CINCHED.

"The sales are already assured and only a few more details remain to be worked out. All three deals were made on my recent trip to Chicago."

It is thought that Andy Messenger, right-handed pitcher, obtained this spring from the Cardinals, will be one of those sold. He has had two big league trials but his record this season with Atlanta has been such as to make for him another try.

St. Rosenthal, outfielder, obtained from Dallas in exchange for Ed Brown, was considered a major league prospect for a time, but a slump hurt his chances. Whether or not he is one of those to be sold is unknown. It may be one of the young players on the squad.

AID CRACKER FINANCES.

With most of the clubs in the Southern Association operating at a loss, the Crackers will be pulled out of the red into the black by the sale of the three players. It is even possible that the club will show some profit. R. J. Spiller has never lost money since he began operating the club and this year will be no exception. Selling three players is unexpected. Appling seemed to be the only sure shot for the majors.

Appling was signed shortly after the completion of his sophomore year at Oglethorpe University. Several major league clubs were after his services but the Crackers met their bids and at the recommendation of Tubby Walton, patron saint to all Atlanta baseball players, Appling accepted Cracker terms.

He started slowly, but within a week began hitting the ball and fielding in sensational style. He is hitting better than .350 and his fielding, while spotted with errors, is remarkably good. He goes after everything and that explains many of his muffs in the field.

PLAYING WITH SHEEHAN.

Appling profited greatly by association on the field with Jack Sheehan, veteran second baseman, who has been the best second baseman in the league for the past two years. Sheehan has aided him immeasurably.

The young infielder began his baseball career at Fulton High school under Coach "Bird" Hope. He entered Oglethorpe in the fall of 1928 and, during his two years there, played baseball, basketball and football.

Six major league teams made offers for Appling and the White Sox offer, which included more than $20,000 cash, a player next spring and an agreement that Appling would be returned here in the event he failed to Reddie was considered the best one. Final agreement was reached at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Crackers Lose Night Game, 6-1.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Jim Moore, Little Rock right-hander, held Atlanta to four hits and one run which was unearned, and the Travelers defeated the Crackers, 6 to 1, here tonight.

Manager Harry Strohm, of the Crackers, started the scoring with a home run in the first inning.

White Sox Buy Appling

Luke Appling, the apple of your eye, was sold Tuesday morning to the Chicago White Sox, according to announcement from the Cracker office. The former Oglethorpe football and baseball star and this year stellar shortstop for Atlanta, brought a price said to be in excess of $20,000. He will report to Chicago on September 15. ### 'It Should Have Been,' Says Rell, and Moans

Cracker Official Has Club Fighed in Race Under Forbidden Split Season Plan.

By Ralph McGill.

That large gentleman whom you may encounter walking along the street misquoting a part of the pastoral history of Maude Muller, is not a daffy.

It is simply Mr. Rell J. Spiller, of the Crackers, and when he says, "Of all sad words of tongue and pen, the saddest are these, it should have been," he is talking about how the Southern Association baseball season should have been split on July 2.

Had the season been split the Atlanta Crackers would now be two and a half games out of first place and in the thick of the fight for the flag. As it is they are in fourth place and in the thin of the fight for their place.

"I know the poem says that the saddest of words are, 'It might have been,' but in this case that doesn't exactly apply because it isn't so. It didn't have a chance. Two or three owners blocked the split season. And so I keep saying over and over again, 'It should have been.' They are the saddest words to me."

"Just look here," said the Cracker official, "what Mr. Shaver out at our office, has fixed up."

He drew from his pocket a sheet of paper whereon was the standing of the clubs for the second half of the Southern association season as they would have been the season been split, including games of Monday, it was as follows:

Memphis W. L. Pct. 31 17 .659. Birmingham 31 17 .646. Atlanta 30 18 .625. Little Rock 27 19 .589. New Orleans 29 20 .590. Chattanooga 29 20 .590. Nashville 29 20 .590. Mobile 28 21 .571.

OH! SORROW!

Those figures, which show the Crackers to be in third place, instead of fighting for the flag, brought sorrow to the Cracker office. R. J. Spiller threw all his weight behind the measure, and the weight is plenty, but it failed.

Indications are that next season will find the league playing a split season. Other indications are that there will be more young players in the league than ever before in its history.

The recently adopted rookie rule, which makes it obligatory that each club carry seven rookies, would not ordinarily affect the club's personnel next season. The rookies of this year will retain their status for the 1931 season.

ENGLISH STAR BOWS IN HARD 3-SET MATCH

Atlanta's Accurate Racquet Subdues Britisher at 6-0, 2-6, 6-1.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 19.—(UN) Surprising upsets which resulted in the elimination of the third and ninth ranking players of the country featured play in the 14th annual Newport invitation tennis tournament here today.

The third ranking player, John Doe, of Santa Monica, Cal., was defeated by Frank X. Shields, New York youngster and No. 12 in the ranking, and Berkeley Bell, Dallas, Texas, was eliminated by J. Gilbert Hall, of South Orange, N. J.

Shields' victory climaxed a day of brilliant tennis by that player. Before taking the court against Doe, Shields had eliminated Edwin Branddock, New York, 6-1, 11-9, and Donald Strachan, Philadelphia, 6-1, 2-6, 6-3. But the New York boy, one time junior champion, still had enough stamina to outlast Doe and win, 6-4, 10-12, 6-2. Hall triumphed over Bell by 6-2, 7-5 scores.

The victories of Shields and Hall completely overshadowed the victory of Big Bill Tilden over John Milten, New York, 8-6, 7-5, in the third round. Tilden exerted very little energy in his match with Milten, being content to allow the youngster to defeat himself with errors. Tomorrow Tilden meets Clifford Sutter, the New Orleans young man, being content to allow the youngster to defeat himself with errors. Tomorrow Tilden meets Clifford Sutter, the New Orleans young man, being content to allow the youngster to defeat himself with errors.

Bryan Grant, young Atlanta sensation, continued his victorious march today when he defeated the English star, J. S. Olliff, in three sets, 6-0, 6-4, 6-3. He then took the courts with his doubles partner, Jack Moore, fellow Atlanta, and trimmed Eliot Hobbs, Newport, and Thomas Ridgeway, Jr., Philadelphia, 6-2, 6-2.

Wood, Jr., the California flash who defeated the Atlanta star at Southampton two weeks ago.

Other results were: George Lott, Chicago, defeated Jake Hess, Fort Worth, Texas, 6-0, 6-3. Keith Gledhill, California, defeated Edwin Branddock, New York, 7-5, 6-3.

Sidney B. Wood, Jr., New York, defeated George Churchill, New York, 6-2, 6-2.

Walter Allison, Austin, Texas, defeated Eddie Jenkins, New York, 6-3, 6-1.

Francis T. Hunter, New Rochelle, N. Y., defeated Dick Lusch, Los Angeles, 6-1, 6-3.

John Van Ryn, Orange, N. J., defeated David R. Jones, New York, 3-6, 6-1, 6-3.

KEY TOURNEY IN THIRD ROUND

Golfers in the James L. Key municipal course tournament reached the third round Tuesday with Pete Barnes pitted against John Knight and Tommie Carten playing James "Kid" Brown in the semi-finals of the first flight.

These two matches will be played today, and the finals will be decided Thursday. Barnes gained the semi-finals by defeating Stafford Wallis, 2-1; Knight won from Harry Gerbrier, 6-4; Carten trounced Joe Garbrier, 4-3, and Brown beat Pat Murphy, 2-1.

I. J. Friedland won the fourth flight championship Tuesday by defeating Cecil Grace in the final, 3-1. Friedland had previously beaten G. Bush and G. L. Plowden.

The third round was reached in the second flight, and consolation flights, as well as in the first. Pete Barnes, who plays Knight today in the semi-finals of the first flight, was his tourney being defeated by J. J. Fenton, 4-3. T. Gooden defeated C. M. Kane, 2 up, and R. M. Hubert defeated W. J. Bous.

Third Flight: J. D. Johnson defeated J. H. Brown, 2 up; Ralph Trout defeated Dr. Monroe Martin, 2-1; J. H. Jackson, 8-6, defeated Y. C. Mitchell, 7 and 6, and I. J. Friedland, 4 and 3.

Fourth Flight: I. J. Friedland defeated Cecil Grace, 3 and 1.

Consolation Flight: Charlie Barnes defeated Willie Smith, 2 and 1. Barnes won by default from O. E. Kearney; Charles defeated Andy McHenry, 2 and 1, and Tommy Barnes defeated F. B. Quillian, 8 and 2.

Army Officer Gets Hole-in-One.

Atlanta's "Dodo" Club initiated a new member at Dendil Hills Tuesday afternoon when Captain Edwards negotiated the par 3 hole in a single stroke. The army officer sent a No. 2 iron home on the 175-yard hole.

Captain Edwards was playing in a foursome with General Estes, Colonel Barnes and Colonel Tibbett when the fortunes of the links favored him.

Ernie Koob Catches On With Texas Leaders

One of baseball's most ancient axioms reads, "You never can tell what will happen in baseball."

In support of that consider the case of Ernie Koob, left-handed pitcher who was with the Crackers at the outset of the 1930 season.

Koob was released because he couldn't win. He caught on with Topeka, Kan., and was sold by them to Wichita Falls.

Wichita Falls is almost a sure shot to win the Texas league pennant and play the Southern league winners.

All of which means that Ernie Koob, who couldn't win for the Crackers and wasn't wanted by any other club in the league, will get to pitch against the winning team in the Dixie circuit and get a cut of the money. And none of the Crackers, with whom Koob wouldn't stick, will get any of that money.

TARZAN AND THE LOST EMPIRE No. 33

For three weeks Tarzan remained in the home of Maximus Praeclarus, Festivitas, Praeclarus' mother, conceived a liking for the bronzed barbarian and set about to teach him Latin. Always quick at languages, Tarzan soon had a working knowledge of the classic tongue and talked to Festivitas by the hour.

Meanwhile the slave, Mpingu, had been talking to intimate friends about the secret guest in his master's house. The talk spread and the result was that one day in the market place Mpingu felt a heavy hand laid upon his shoulder, and, turning, he found himself looking into the face of a centurion of the palace guard.

"Come with me," said the centurion. Mpingu drew back, but the centurion ignored him, and the people fell aside as the soldiers marched away with the black slave. Mpingu thought he would be taken to the dungeons of the Colosseum, but presently he realized he was being headed toward the palace, and terror filled him.

'BOYS OF '98' MARCH AGAIN IN VET PARADE

Convention Will Be Held in New Orleans in 1937.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 19.—(AP)—The "Boys of '98" who carried the Stars and Stripes against Spain in Cuba, marched again today in a colorful parade featuring the 32nd annual encampment of the United Spanish War Veterans.

Graying heads erect and shoulders straight, they were once more "the American army" as they marched in Philadelphia's famous parkway to the reviewing stands at city hall. Veterans from every state paraded to the beat of drums and the blare of bagpipes as only military-trained men can parade. Thousands lined the sidewalks and packed the reviewing stands, their cheers and applause supported by the roar of nine military planes from over head.

After the parade the veterans saw a demonstration by army fliers at the Philadelphia navy yard, followed by contests for uniformed drill teams. The parade was the high spot of "preparation day," the second day of the encampment which is to continue until Thursday.

Earlier in the day the veterans heard Captain W. C. Watts, of the Philadelphia navy yard, who for two years was in command of the U. S. S. Colorado, sketch the progress of naval affairs from the time of the Olympia, Dewey's flagship, to the present. He urged the veterans to support the building program of the navy, declaring its importance could not be overestimated.

Colonel Lewis S. Sorley, commander of the 70th division, of Philadelphia, urged greater preparedness and cited costs of what he described as unpreparedness in the Spanish-American and World Wars.

Officers were nominated and will be elected tomorrow. Judge Edward

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Whether approximately 60,000 Luzerne county paper ballots that were stamped with perforated numbers at the primary last May shall be thrown out was argued for nearly three hours before the state supreme court today.

"We will reach a decision as quickly as we possibly can," said Acting Chief Justice Robert S. Frazier. The justices conferred an hour after the hearing today and will resume their conference tomorrow. There was no indication tonight when a decision may be reached.

At the hearing the justices frequently interpellated counsel for Gilford Pinchot, republican nominee for governor, and Francis Shunk Brown, his principal opponent, who contends that the perforations on the ballots constitute mutilation and render them illegal.

As Mr. Pinchot carried the state by 20,000 and Luzerne county by 26,000, the invalidation of the vote would give Brown the republican nomination by 6,000 votes, and would leave Pinchot only the nomination of the prohibition party and of the parties he has pre-empted to meet as a contingency.

John Hampton Barnes, chief counsel for Brown, insisted the breaking of sealed packages of paper ballots and resealing them constituted a violation of the election laws.

Deputy Attorney General William Moore, who acted as referee for Pinchot, declared that Barnes based his contention in the election law of 1933, whereas the ballots in Luzerne county were sealed, packaged and stamped before the primary election of 1933. This act, he maintained, was not violated.

TARBORO, N. C., Aug. 19.—(AP)—A mob which early today lynched Oliver Moore, 20, negro, confronted to night the expressed determination of Governor O. Max Gardner to see that his members are prosecuted.

The governor, who is on a vacation in the western part of the state, characterized the lynching as "a disgrace to North Carolina." Late today he was undetermined whether the state would make an investigation independent of that of Sheriff W. E. Bardin, of Edgecombe county, but said the sheriff had "the state lock of his county forces."

Moore, a tenant farmer who was taken from the Edgecombe county jail here by the mob shortly after midnight, was carried into Wilson county, a stone's throw from the spot where the crime was committed, strung him from a tree and shot him to death.

Suspended by two plow lines passed under his armpits, the negro's body hung from a limb of a giant pine tree until 9 o'clock this morning when it was cut down and an inquest held. The coroner's jury, drawn from Wilson county, reached no verdict.

Deputy R. O. Watson, who lives at the jail, said there were 200 mob members in the mob. He said he attempted to telephone Sheriff Bardin, but before he could do so the mob had smashed in the door. With drawn pistols, the masked men forced him to surrender the cell keys and took Moore.

Moore was captured Thursday and was given a preliminary hearing July 19. He was ordered held without bond. Both girls are now in a hospital here.

North Carolina Mob Kills Negro Farmer

Man Accused of Attacking Little Girl Taken From Jail.

TARBORO, N. C., Aug. 19.—(AP)—A mob which early today lynched Oliver Moore, 20, negro, confronted to night the expressed determination of Governor O. Max Gardner to see that his members are prosecuted.

The governor, who is on a vacation in the western part of the state, characterized the lynching as "a disgrace to North Carolina." Late today he was undetermined whether the state would make an investigation independent of that of Sheriff W. E. Bardin, of Edgecombe county, but said the sheriff had "the state lock of his county forces."

Pennsylvania Vote Decision Nearing

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Whether approximately 60,000 Luzerne county paper ballots that were stamped with perforated numbers at the primary last May shall be thrown out was argued for nearly three hours before the state supreme court today.

"We will reach a decision as quickly as we possibly can," said Acting Chief Justice Robert S. Frazier. The justices conferred an hour after the hearing today and will resume their conference tomorrow. There was no indication tonight when a decision may be reached.

At the hearing the justices frequently interpellated counsel for Gilford Pinchot, republican nominee for governor, and Francis Shunk Brown, his principal opponent, who contends that the perforations on the ballots constitute mutilation and render them illegal.

As Mr. Pinchot carried the state by 20,000 and Luzerne county by 26,000, the invalidation of the vote would give Brown the republican nomination by 6,000 votes, and would leave Pinchot only the nomination of the prohibition party and of the parties he has pre-empted to meet as a contingency.

John Hampton Barnes, chief counsel for Brown, insisted the breaking of sealed packages of paper ballots and resealing them constituted a violation of the election laws.

Deputy Attorney General William Moore, who acted as referee for Pinchot, declared that Barnes based his contention in the election law of 1933, whereas the ballots in Luzerne county were sealed, packaged and stamped before the primary election of 1933. This act, he maintained, was not violated.

FANATICISM ASSAILED BY CATHOLIC LEADERS

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Criticism of the enforcement of virtue by statute and machine gun and a plea for the settlement of the unemployment problem were addressed to the forty-eighth annual supreme convention of the Knights of Columbus here today by Catholic leaders in the church and in public life.

William Cardinal O'Connell, speaking of puritanism, said: "Puritanism was an extreme, which, unchecked, was bound to lead to fanaticism. We wish we could say that there was nothing of this in America, but alas, from time to time, we are made only too conscious of it by the enactment of laws and statutes which still indicate the spirit of the Old Testament and not that of the New."

"History proves that goodness and virtue and righteousness cannot be forced on a people by statutes or by machine guns. But, while we shudder at the fierce austerity of Puritan life, we would do well not to forget that luxury and wealth may lead to the corruption even of the best and destroy the very foundation of the nation, founded by sturdy men in poverty and privation."

Mayor James M. Curley, of Boston, who followed the cardinal, asked the Knights three questions: "Did you ever stop to consider how it is possible for a man to be a good citizen and a good Catholic if he travels in adversity?"

"Is it not true that the intellect of America was applied to some character of solution of the age-old problem of banishing poverty from the richest nation in this world?"

"I wonder if this land is incapable of solving the problem of unemployment, the breeding spot of poverty, disease, crime and ignorance?"

American Minister, Bennett Will Confer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Handover of the American minister to Canada, announced today he would leave for Ottawa in time to confer with Prime Minister Bennett before the latter leaves for the imperial conference in London in September.

MacNider had dinner with President Hoover tonight and was to confer with him again tomorrow. The minister may be among the guests over the week-end at the Hoover camp on the Rapidan.

One of the questions of vital concern between the two countries is the St. Lawrence waterway, in which the chief executive was deeply interested before he became president. MacNider's principal task at Ottawa is expected to be the bringing to the Canadian government's attention the status of the St. Lawrence dihydroelectric exchanges and President Hoover's attitude on the question.

Miss Pope's father is a widely known architect. His summer home here is the Cave Cliff, one of Newport's showplaces.

Make Us Prove It!

Stop in and let us prove to your entire satisfaction that we are actually selling regular Seiberling tires at prices being asked for chain store and many second-line tires. Many, no doubt, have found it hard to believe this possible, knowing the superior construction of Seiberlings and their reputation for unsurpassed mileage and trouble-free service. But, we are doing just this every day, having sold several cars in just a few months to thrifty Atlanta car owners. It's due to the buying power of 5,000 INDEPENDENT tire dealers and the fact that Seiberling does not sell chain stores or car manufacturers at a loss which must be made up on retail sales. Seiberling prices are based on actual production costs only. Easy terms gladly arranged.

Drive by and we'll show you why we can sell regular Seiberlings, America's Finest Tires, at such low prices. We'll also show you why Seiberlings wear longer, absorb road shocks and steer easier. Come today.

10 More Bodies Taken From Blackburn Mine

BLAKEBURN, B. C., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Ten bodies were found last night in the Blackburn mine, where 45 workers were entombed in an explosion last Wednesday. Three bodies previously had been recovered.

Rescue workers returning to the pit head just before midnight announced the bodies were located on No. 1 slope. Other bodies had been found near the pit portal.

Rescuers had penetrated quite a distance from where they were temporarily halted by Friday's fire. No attempt was made to identify the dead men. Workers said, with cave-ins blocking the slope, it might be several days before the bodies could be brought out.

BODIES OF TWO FOUND AFTER MANY MONTHS

MEDICINE HAT, Alta., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Adam Snyder and 15-year-old Minnie Sturm disappeared last October in Snyder's car.

Their bodies were found by a rider Sunday lying in the car which was hidden from view in a mountain coulee. A note beside them said they took poison together. Snyder was married.

Secretary Mellon Denies Statement

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Secretary Mellon today denied stories circulating yesterday in the condition of Cardinal Rouleau, archbishop of Quebec, who suffered serious injuries yesterday in an automobile accident.

His shoulder was fractured when he was thrown from his automobile after a punctured tire caused the car to skid, cuts and bruises. He is 65 years old.

The last rites of the church were administered yesterday before the improvement set in.

His secretary and G. E. Cote, of Quebec, who also were in the car, escaped injury.

Rummy Game Started To Outlast Drouth

FAIRMONT, Minn., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Whatever connection there may be between rummy and rain is not immediately apparent, but nevertheless the Fairmont Recreation Club has started a rummy game which is to continue as long as the drouth.

The country around Fairmont has not had a good rain since July 3. Pastures are burning out and corn production has been cut 25 per cent.

A dozen members of the club, farmers and merchants were talking it over last night, wondering why they could not do about it. Somebody recalled the college boys who didn't shave until their football team won. The upshot of it was the decision to keep right on playing rummy in shifts, day and night, until there is a good soaking rain.

One wife suggested it all may be just a dodge to get away from house.
